BOUNCY PLAN UNVEILED — This is San Rafael Architect Gordon A. Phillips' rendering of Corte Madera trampoline center proposed by luggage manufacturer H. M. Koch. About 20 ground-level trampolines would be located over deep pits. Unusual spired structure would serve as ticket pavilion.

Novel Trampoline Center In Corte Madera Proposed

Things will be jumping in Corte Madera soon if H. M. Koch has his way.

Koch, president of H. Koch and Sons, Inc., Corte Madera luggage firm, wants to establish a trampoline center on a vacant lot at 704 Tamalpais drive, adjacent to Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Bouncing on trampolines not only is fun, the theory goes, but also gives youngsters a healthy outlet for their abundant energy and provides adults a novel means of working off frustrations of daily living.

Under Koch's plan, about 20 springy trampolines would be installed on the 60-by-150-foot site.

The canvas trampolines, each lying flush with the ground, would be placed over deep pits and surrounded by heavy padding for the safety of bouncers.

Tickets would be purchased at an unusual pavilion designed by Gordon A. Phillips, San Rafael architect. Set on a circular plastic base, it would have a square ticket counter and a band of sliding glass panels affixed with colored plastic rings resembling hula hoops.

Above the glass section would be a thin cantilevered canopy, topped by a Fiberglas tepee-style roof, a perforated Fiberglas steeple and a six-foot pole. The structure would measure 22 feet from ground to Spire top.

The trampoline center would be surrounded by a six-foot fence with alternating chain-link and colored Fiberglas section. Like the panels of the pavilion, the Fiberglas fence paneling would be decorated with rings of plastic tubing.

Koch's plan was given a preliminary once-over Thursday night by the three-member town board of design. The board withheld action pending submission of a color scheme for the pavilion and fence. An adjourned meeting on the plan was scheduled for Monday night.

The town zoning ordinance requires complete enclosure of facilities such as gymnasiums. Whether Koch's proposed fence would fill the bill or whether the trampolines would have to be under a roof are questions for the Corte Madera Planning Commission to consider, along with off-street parking requirements.

The planners, also scheduled to meet Monday night, may take up the matter if the board of design disposes of it in time. The board will meet about one-half hour before the commission convenes at 7:30.

Conservation Speaker Asks For Regional Greenbelt Plan

"Marin can be the emerald in a ring of bay counties if and when a greenbelt system is created," stated DeWitt Nelson, director of the state department of natural resources last night to a record crowd attending the 26th annual dinner-meeting of the Marin Conservation League.

Mrs. Norman B. Livermore, president, introduced Nelson who was the featured speaker at the event held at College of Marin.

Nelson, talking on "Man Versus Nature in Marvelous Marin," revealed the findings of a study by the California Public Outdoor Recreation Plan showed a need for Bay Area counties to join together for the planning, developing and operating of recreational facilities within a maximum range of 50 miles from the San Francisco metropolitan area.

"Marin should become one of the major units in a system of greenbelts surrounding the metropolitan center," Nelson said, and pointed out that the preservation of all the coastline and most of the county's wooded areas will be essential in the future.

He said the recreational future for Marin should be oriented to the needs of the masses in the bay region.

In Marin's unit of the intercounty regional recreation system, the emphasis should be on day-time uses where "people from all over the state and nation can find rest and relaxation in sightseeing, study of the landscape and history, picnicking, riding, hiking, climbing, swimming, boating, fishing and hunting where compatible," Nelson stated.

"Marin, for its own protection, cannot withstand the pressures of recreational needs from the metropolitan counties unless it fosters an intercounty regional recreational government in which it has a legal say," Nelson warned. In this proposed framework it should become a highly used, but protected greenbelt, he added.

The comprehensive study of this new concept of regional development will soon be in print and available for study. Discussing recreational potential, Nelson included the proposed Point Reyes National Seashore. He said he could see no reason why the federal government should not acquire the property and permit the dairy ranches to continue to operate for many, many years.

Nelson said he believes this would protect the open spaces and the agriculture of the area. Mrs. Livermore, in her annual report, outlined the suc-

U.S. Satellite Zooms On Into Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pioneer V hurtled through the silent reaches of space today, heading for its destined place as a tiny new sister planet between Earth and Venus.

By 8 a.m. EST, 24 hours after launching, it was estimated to be about 187,150 miles from earth. By 3 p.m. this afternoon, it would cross the moon's orbit around the earth, about 232,000 miles out. Then it will plunge onward in its five-month trip to an orbit around the sun.

The 26-inch sphere is packed with cunningly miniaturized scientific instruments, already sending to earth a wealth of important new information on what it's like out there. Someday men may follow it.

Every hour or so, on command from stations on earth, one of the satellite's two radios switches on, sends back the loud clear signal for 15 minutes, and then is switched off by a man standing back here on terra firma. This is done to conserve the sun-powered batteries.

Pioneer V is the third man-made thing to be hurled into a planet-like orbit around the sun. The brilliant success of its Thor-Able launching rocket and the evidence that everything aboard is in perfect working order gave America's beleaguered space scientists a tremendous boost in self-esteem after watching the Soviet Union's startling feats of spacecraft.

Pioneer V is the first satellite to be fired towards an orbit inside the earth's. After it falls into its endless race around the sun—its orbit will touch the earth's and swing to within about seven million miles of Venus' smaller orbit. It's year around the sun will be about 311 days.

The new space probe's second radio is a powerful 150-watt ultra high frequency radio designed to send back to earth from as far as 50 million miles away.

Even in later years, when Pioneer V swings back that close to earth, scientists hope to be able to trigger this big

Adenauer Off On Trip To United States

BONN, Germany (AP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer took off by plane today for a 12-day visit to the United States and pre-summit talks with President Eisenhower.

"This is politically a very important trip," said Adenauer as he boarded the four-engine Constellation of the Lufthansa Airline slated to arrive in New York's International Airport at 7 p.m. "Hard work awaits all of us in the next three weeks."

The 84-year-old leader was in high spirits and joked with reporters.

Adenauer was accompanied by Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano and a large group of advisers. His son Konrad, an industrial executive, and a daughter, Lette Mulhaupt, also went along.

Adenauer will meet New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and prominent Jewish leaders in New York before leaving for Washington Tuesday.

A new legal motion on behalf of Caryl Chessman was being prepared by Attorney George T. Davis today for court submission next week.

Davis said that though Chessman had earlier decided to terminate his nearly 12-year battle against gas chamber execution now scheduled for May 2, Davis had been able to convince Chessman that a "fundamental point" was still to be raised.

Transocean Airline Stops Operations

OAKLAND (UPI) — Transocean Airlines has suspended operations pending refinancing. Francis C. Jones, assistant to the president, said yesterday.

Jones said the firm's 14 Stratocruisers are out of service, its ticket offices closed and almost all of its 1800 employees laid off.

He said Orvis M. Nelson, Transocean's president, is negotiating with financiers in the East for funds to put the 14-year-old company back in the air.

Meanwhile, the firm is continuing to provide crews under contracts with such airlines as Air Jordan, Iranian Airlines and Japan Airlines.

Transocean was formed as a suboceanic air carrier by 15 former World War II flyers.

SEN. JOHN F. MCCARTHY Files for re-election

Sen. McCarthy Files For Re-Election

State Sen. John F. McCarthy, Republican, yesterday filed at the county clerk's office for reelection to the senate seat which he has held since 1950.

His only opposition thus far is Democrat Charles M. Geller, San Anselmo electrician.

Now 36, and a native Californian, McCarthy has achieved status of a state Senate veteran since his initial election fight against T. Fred Bagshaw to win the remainder of an unexpired term of Thomas F. Keating who was appointed to the Marin Superior Court.

He attended the University of San Francisco and Heald's Engineering College, marrying Ursula Mulligan in 1947.

With their children, the McCarthys have maintained residence for years at 21 Pepper way, San Rafael.

McCarthy has been author of many bills dealing with problems of this county. It was his legislative measures which led to construction of the $68 million San Rafael-Richmond bridge and his continuing battle with Golden Gate Bridge directors led to lowering of toll to 25 cents.

Always interested in state highways generally, he brought forward proposals which led to a $5 million loan to the Golden Gate Bridge district which made possible the Waldo grade widening.

Explosion In Cuba Hurts Castro Police

HAVANA (UPI) — Four members of the investigation department of the Castro government were wounded today when a hand grenade exploded while they were examining it.

The investigation department is a branch of the secret police with offices near the San Francisco docks.

One of the policemen lost an arm in the explosion and was reported in critical condition.

Warns On Expecting Dramatic Meet Result

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower called today for all-out East-West efforts to agree on a fool-proof plan to halt the global arms race.

At the same time he warned against expecting "dramatic" progress at the 10-nation disarmament conference with Russia beginning in Geneva Tuesday.

The President pledged that the United States would "explore every possible avenue" toward safeguarded arms agreements to cut military manpower and weapons and lessen the danger of nuclear war. But he also made it clear that the United States would not accept Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's grandiose plan to abolish all armies without system of control and inspection to enforce it.

Eisenhower called on the Geneva conference—at which the Soviet Union and four of its satellites will face five Western powers — to "discharge its solemn obligation to mankind" by hammering out some cheat-proof steps along the road to "general disarmament."

His views were set forth in a letter to New York lawyer Fredrick M. Eaton who will head the U.S. delegation. Meantime the five Western nations to be represented at Geneva—the United States, Britain, France, Canada and Italy—won NATO approval of the sweeping three-stage disarmament plan they will present.

NO PESSIMISM

"We must not be pessimistic because of the lack of success in past disarmament negotiations," the President wrote, "Nor should we necessarily expect immediate, dramatic and far-reaching strides, although we would certainly welcome such progress."

He said the objective should be "to contribute by carefully balanced, phased and safeguard arms control agreements to the ultimate objective of a secure, free and peaceful world in which international disputes will be settled in accordance with the principles of the United Nations charter."

The talks represent the first East-West effort to reach some accord on reducing military manpower and weapons since negotiations blew up in complete disagreement in London in September, 1957.

The Communist satellite countries at the conference will be Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria. It is the first time the West has granted the Kremlin's demand for "parity" at an international conference.

The Western disarmament plan proposes that Russia and the United States limit their military manpower to 2,100,000 men each and sets forth phased steps leading eventually to drastic reduction of conventional armaments and total prohibition of nuclear weapons and military missiles.

MANPOWER CUTS

The Soviet Union claims it already is in the process of cutting its armed forces from 3,600,000 men to around 2,400,000. U. S. forces now total about 2,300,000.

Khrushchev proposed, in a speech to the United Nations last Sept. 17, that the major powers agree on elimination of all armed forces with the exception of those police units necessary for internal security. Like most Russian proposals, it contained no machinery or method for policing the agreement to prevent violations.

Khrushchev also said early this year, when announcing plans to cut Russia's armed forces, that the Soviet Union had achieved such superiority in missiles and rockets that it was able to undertake drastic cuts in manpower with perfect security.

The three steps in the Western plan are:

Air Force Acknowledges Ryukyu Island 'Strafing'

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — The U.S. Air Force acknowledged today that two Ryukyu Islanders, wounded gathering scrap on a gunnery range, apparently were victims of accidental strafing by an American jet.

An Air Force spokesman issued the statement as tension mounted over the incident Thursday on Ie Shima Island.

"Since there are no known eyewitnesses other than the victims it cannot at this point be proven conclusively, but there is every indication they were injured by strafing," the spokesman said.

Okinawan and Japanese newspapers said Binishi Oshiro, 17, and Takemori Shumabukuro, 21, were collecting brass on the U.S. Air Force range at Ie Shima range. The Okinawa Times quoted a police official as saying the youths admitted they were on the range illegally.

The papers said one youth was shot in the leg and the other lost an arm. Both were in the hospital in the port of Nago, 25 miles north of here.

The Air Force spokesman said F111 Super Saber jets were over the range Thursday. He said a preliminary check showed that before gunnery practice, the Air Force followed usual procedure and issued several warning signals.

The incident brought international reaction. Naha's former leftist mayor, Kamejiri Senaga said "It exposes the aggressive pose of the United States in Okinawa."

The story, carried in Japanese papers, was picked up by the Soviet news agency Tass.

"This is not the first time that American servicemen in Japan have been engaged in 'manhunts' for fun," Tass said.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

St. Patrick Fetes Highlight The Week

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

For the twenty-second year the George Schirmers of Kent Woodlands are hosting a St. Patrick's Day dinner party. Each March 17, a corn beef and cabbage dinner is given by the Schirmers and the table is always decked in Ireland's green.

THE ST. PATRICK'S dinner dance tonight at the Woman's Athletic Club in San Francisco will be attended by a number of Marinites. The Harold Schuttes of Ross, who have just returned from a marvelous trip, will be hosts to the Benton Tulleys and Dr. and Mrs. Earle Young of Marin, also Mr. and Mrs. Andre Doassans of Hillsborough. The Schuttes left on Feb. 18 from New York by plane for Guatemala City. They went to Lake Atitlan in the highlands and over to Chichicastenango where they were delighted with the Indian market place and amazed with the religious ceremonies, part pagan, part Christian. The Schuttes were in Trinidad at carnival time and then went to Barbados, and to Montego Bay in Jamaica. They had the thrill of rafting on the Rio Grande. On a bamboo raft they were pulled over the rapids. They flew back to New York where they were fortunate enough to get seats for "Sound of Music." From New York Harold flew back to San Francisco. Justina went on to visit a former schoolmate at Trinity College, Mrs. Arthur J. Keefe of Washington, D.C. Justina arrived home yesterday.

Hosting another table at the club will be the Arthur Dettners, erstwhile Ross residents. Their guests will be the Harrison Leppos, George Schirmers and George Goheens from Marin and Mr. and Mrs. Duane Tweeddale and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Gooman, Jean Woodward Carter and Dr. Alexander Taylor. Mrs. Tweeddale and her mother, Mrs. I. N. Rosecrans are leaving soon for a three months tour of Europe. Mr. Tweeddale will join them later.

The Dettners, who still have their house in Ross, and an apartment in San Francisco, may build on the Kona Coast on the island of Hawaii. Arthur is leaving the first of April for Japan where he has business interests. Mabelle is flying to Hawaii on April 26 and Arthur will join her there for a two weeks' holiday on his return trip.

ALTHOUGH Mrs. Harry Koons is still nursing a sprained ankle she suffered while skiing at Edelweiss over the Lincoln's Birthday weekend, she intends to return to try once more on the slopes. She and Harry and their daughter, Barbara Darlene, 13, and son, Billy, 15, all good skiers, will spend Easter week at Edelweiss. They've taken the St. Moritz room at the inn. That's the room which has a door opening on to the second story balcony in the center building. From it there is a magnificent view of the snow covered mountains.

TRAVELING SOUTH are the Clayton L. Drews of Corte Madera. They left on Thursday for Arizona and en route will visit friends in Encino, Hollywood and Glendale. The Drews will be away about two weeks spending most of the time in Phoenix.

SELDOM AT HOME during the past couple of months has been Mrs. Harry W. Johnson of Loch Lomond. With her daughter, Mrs. Robert Sears of Sacramento, she flew to Mexico for three weeks' of travel with car and driver. En route they visited with Mrs. Johnson's son, Alan Johnson and family at his home in Rolling Hills near Los Angeles. Mrs. Johnson had hardly unpacked from her Mexican trip when she received word that a party was being given for Alan on his birthday on Sunday. So she flew south again to surprise him and returned on Monday.

A VACANT THREE story mansion on Nob Hill in San Francisco will come to life a week from tonight when Mr. and Mrs. Edson Adams of San Anselmo and Mrs. Marjory Pearson give an Italian dinner dance there. The house belongs to Mrs. Pearson who has it on the market for sale. At present she is living in an apartment on Pacific Avenue, having sublet her apartment on Broadway to Mr. and Mrs. Spellman Prentiss. However, Mrs. Pearson does not intend to stay in San Francisco. She has bought a hundred acres near Santa Rosa and will build there.

The large vacant house will resemble a restaurant in an Italian fishing village when the guests arrive. Overhead will be fishing nets. The red check cloth tables will be centered by candles sputtering in wine bottles. Downstairs an Italian combo will play for the dancers. Upstairs those who prefer American-style music will dance to hi-fi.

BON VOYAGE parties are being given for Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Hughes of San Rafael who sail on April 15 aboard the "Matsonia" for a vacation in Hawaii. They'll headquarter at the Royal Hawaiian in Honolulu and will visit many of the islands in the chain. The return trip will also be on the "Matsonia."

Honoring Dr. and Mrs. Hughes a supper party will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dutart of Ross on April 9. Mrs. Elbert M. Brown of San Rafael has set March 30 as the date for the luncheon she will give at her home honoring Mrs. Hughes. Other guests will be Mesdames Robert Quinlan, Fred Figone, Samuel Dutart, Marshall Baldwin and W. C. Jenkel. Coming from Los Altos for the party will be Mrs. W. B. Tyler. Another guest will be Mrs. Ronald Kaehler of Atherton.

The island "fever" seems to be contagious. On March 23, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Berol, neighbors of Dr. and Mrs. Hughes are sailing on the "Matsonia" for Honolulu. Aboard ship there will be a dual birthday celebration. Ed's birthday is on sailing day and his wife's birthday is on March 25. The Berols will also stay at the Royal Hawaiian.

SPRINGLIKE were the day and the clothes of the guests when the Symphony Guild of Marin held its preview on Wednesday at the Meadow Club. Mrs. John Lesoine, hostess to a large group at luncheon including Maestro Sando Salgo, the preview speaker and who is conductor of the Symphony Orchestra, was lovely in a sapphire blue dress and stiffly brimmed white sailor hat. Mrs. Robert Schultz, president of the guild, was delightful mistress of ceremonies during the preview. She wore a cafe au lait leather coat over her dress. Her perky white straw hat was banded with a brown ribbon. Mrs. Jack (Ursula) McCarthy wore her favorite color, an orchid lavender dress, accented by a glittering matching stole.

In a Mill Valley group were Mrs. A. J. Oehler and her two luncheon guests, Mrs. William Bentley and Mrs. Richard Stanton. They were chatting with Mrs. Chester Dennis, who was stunning in a muted beige and brown print, with a long feathered hat in the same colors. Mrs. Oehler was telling about the three months South American tour her husband recently completed.

TO BLITHE HILL his home in Mill Valley A. J. Oehler returned on Saturday. Highlights of his trip, he reported were the ancient capitol of Cuzco, the famed Inca ruins at Machu Pichu, first discovered by the late Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut in 1911 the Chilean Lakes, where he fished, the snow-capped Andes, the beauty of Buenos Aires and care-free Rio in preparation for its Mardi Gras, and the New Orleans Mardi Gras.

Mr. Oehler sailed from New York on the Grace Line steamer "Santa Barbara" for Lima,

Powerful Legislative Forces Support Brown's Tax Stand

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Powerful forces in the Assembly — and now in the Senate — are behind Gov. Edmund G. Brown in his fight against any state tax cuts this year.

Yesterday, the governor was joined by Senate President Pro Tem Hugh Burns (D-Fresno), who praised rejection by the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee of legislation for a 94-million-dollar tax reduction.

Only a few days earlier, the Democratic-controlled Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee, of which Burns is a member, approved bills to cut taxes 14 to 20 million dollars. Sen. Stanley Arnold (D-Susanville) cast the only audible no vote.

Burns had argued unsuccessfully that action on the bills should be delayed pending legislative action on Brown's proposed 1960-61 budget.

Shortly after the committee approval, however, three of the four bills were sent to the Senate Finance Committee by upper house leaders for further hearing. They are stalled there at the moment.

In a statement released yesterday, Burns reiterated the argument he had made to the Senate Revenue and Taxation Committee.

"I believe further tax reduction unwise at this time, since the Legislature has yet to determine the size of the 1960-61 budget," he said. "Without a single tax cut we are still faced with a very real problem in balancing this budget."

"I am sure we all would like to reduce taxes, especially in an election year, but the governor has faced up to the issue of fiscal responsibility and I hope the Legislature will, too."

Burns, as leader of the Senate's controlling Democrats, and head of its Rules Committee, which routes bills, is in good position to accomplish his purpose.

Marin County Child Health Conference in 1959. Watching, right, is Mrs. R. T. Clark of the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club, who gave 108 hours to the same conference. More than 40 volunteers were guests of honor yesterday at the health department's annual "Kaffee Klatsch".

Ten Persons Seek Oregon Senate Seat

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — The contest for Sen. Richard L. Neuberger's seat in Oregon apparently will be between his widow and former Gov. Elmo Smith, an Albany newspaper publisher.

Filings for the state primary in May closed yesterday with Mrs. Maurine Neuberger the only prominent candidate on the Democratic ballot and Smith the only widely known person on the Republican side.

Each will have, however, four opponents in the primary.

Gov. Mark Hatfield earlier said he would not name any active candidate to serve out Neuberger's term, which runs until November. Hatfield said he will name the successor after memorial services for Neuberger tomorrow. The Democratic senator died Wednesday.

Drake Graduate's Art On Show In Hub City

The paintings of Charles G. Simonds Jr., a 1956 Sir Francis Drake High School graduate, went on show today at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo. The exhibit will continue until April 16.

Simonds is a junior at San Jose State College. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Simonds of 340 Fawn drive, Sleepy Hollow. His father is a history teacher at Drake.

HE COULDN'T DENY BEING IN ACCIDENT

Some kind of record in accident identification was set at the edge of San Rafael early today by a wayfarer from Contra Costa County.

A loud crash was heard on Highway 101 near the California Highway Patrol headquarters just prior to 6 a.m., and Patrolman V. C. Weimer hastened out to determine the where and why.

He overtook a car being driven north by Angel Jose de la Torre, 27, of Rodeo, with these words plainly imprinted (though as in a mirror) on its top: "San Rafael City Limits."

The driver explained he'd been northbound, dozed at the wheel and crashed against the right-hand guard fence. A city limit sign had smacked down and imprinted its legend like a big rubber stamp.

Fairfax Church To Honor Pastor

Members of the Fairfax Seventh-day Adventist Church will have a dinner in honor of their new pastor, John H. Toppenberg, his wife and two children, at 5:30 p.m. tomorrow at the church, 75 Park road, Fairfax.

The Toppenbergs arrived recently from Virginia, where he served as pastor for seven years.

Hendrickson Denies Huge Embezzlement

San Rafael manufacturer John R. Hendrickson took the stand in federal court yesterday and denied participating in one of the largest embezzlements in American banking history.

Hendrickson was implicated by a suicide note left last May 2 by George Hewlett, a cashier at the former Long Beach National Bank. The note said he and Hendrickson embezzled $3,714,610 from the bank.

A shortage was discovered after the bank was bought by the U.S. National Bank of San Diego.

Hendrickson acknowledged he had business dealings with Hewlett. But he said it was only to get the cashier to invest in his oil venture.

Witness Sought To Hub Accident

A San Rafael woman who had an automobile accident in front of Kientz's Pastry Shop, 625 San Anselmo avenue, San Anselmo, at about 3 p.m. on Feb. 27, is seeking a woman who saw the accident.

"She called me by my first name, but I don't remember who she was," said Mrs. Wanda Bisotti of 207 Paloma avenue.

Bandit Gets $47,000 In Bank Holdup

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — A bandit brandishing a shotgun robbed a suburban bank of more than $47,000 today and made two employees cover his getaway.

The masked, gloved bandit dumped the two employees unharmed on a country road four miles from town and got nearly a half-hour head start on police. The exact amount of the loot was not yet determined.

The bandit was waiting outside the branch of the New Iberia National Bank, which is open on Saturdays, when teller Sidney Mayeaux drove up. He stuck a shotgun into Mayeaux's ribs and forced him to open the bank.

NAB'S MANAGER Inside the bank, they waited for branch manager Leroy Lovas.

"Where's the money?" the bandit demanded when Lovas arrived. They produced it for him and then he forced the two men into Mayeaux's car and made Mayeaux drive.

"It seemed well planned," said Ferdie Hebert, executive vice president of the bank. "It all must have happened so fast."

He said Lovas and Mayeaux were "so excited they could hardly talk" to police.

DOUBLES BACK Police Chief Andrew Viator said the bandit, after dropping the men off on the country road, drove Mayeaux's car back to New Iberia and abandoned it there.

Authorities estimated about half an hour elapsed between the time the bandit got the money and the two employees got back to town to call police.

Busy Red Cross Deserves Praise From Us In Marin

Tomorrow is Red Cross Sunday. In many Marin churches and throughout the nation there will be special mention of the services and programs provided by the American Red Cross.

What is the Red Cross doing in Marin? Its accomplishments are impressive.

These are some of the activities in the Marin chapter's last full year:

For the military — a weekly coffee-break hour at the county's three missile bases; a send-off canteen for new military inductees; nurses' aides, Gray Ladies and staff aides at Hamilton Air Force Base.

For the ill — A hundred senior and junior Gray Ladies started serving the residents of the County Hospital in Lucas Valley, expanded their service for the youths at Sonoma State Hospital, had great success with their "self"-government program for "hopeless" women at Napa State Hospital, devoted more than 2,800 homes to the Veterans Home at Yountville, writing more than 1,000 personal letters and sending out hundreds of Christmas cards for the veterans, among other services.

In addition, the motor pool provided hundreds of hours of transportation to hospitals both in Marin and San Francisco, and the Junior Red Cross had more than 250 young workers active on projects both for hospitalized persons and more unfortunate ones overseas.

Workers turned out layettes for wives of servicemen in military hospitals, afghans for 18 amputees, children's robes for the Sonoma hospital, bed jackets for veterans and shopping bags for the Gray Ladies to use at hospitals.

More than 1,000 cases were handled by the chapter's social welfare aides, the disaster service was available but happily little used during the year with few fires and fewer floods in the county during the year, and the nursing service provided instruction for mothers and expectant mothers.

The branch gave water safety instruction to more than 5,000 youngsters at San Rafael, Tamalpais, Drake high school pools, in Woodacre and Shell Beach. Nearly 3,000 of these received certificates for successfully passing swimming and life saving requirements. More than 830 first aid certifications also were issued and first aid stations were set up at such public gatherings as the Mountain Play, the Art and Garden Fair, Grape Festival and the like.

We are proud of the work done by the Marin Red Cross, one of the United Crusade agencies, and hail it on Red Cross Sunday.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

DEATH CAUSES DEATH

A 21-year-old suicide in St. Petersburg, Fla., inflicted the death penalty on several others while driving through a busy downtown area.

One old man was pinned beneath the suicide's car and dragged half a block. He died shortly afterwards in a hospital. Two other pedestrians, both women, suffered serious injuries.

Those who are reckless with their own lives usually show little or no concern for the well-being of others.

Lack of proper esteem for one's self really constitutes a potential danger for everyone else.

Man is made in the image of his Maker and is therefore of divine value. Once he is convinced of his own individual worth, he is more likely to show a healthy respect for others.

Help rectify the crime trend of our day by bringing back into the mainstream of thought a renewed appreciation of the sacred worth of every individual.

"God created man to His own image."
(Genesis 1:27)

Grant, O Lord, that I may see Your holy image in every human being.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Fourth Candidate May Crowd Democratic Race For Assembly

By CHAPIN A. DAY

There is a good possibility that the already hot race for Democratic nomination for assemblyman from this district, will get hotter.

Added heat may be added by young Edward Wachsman, Terra Linda insurance estate planner. He is seriously considering jumping into the Democratic race for Assemblyman Richard H. McCollister's seat in Sacramento.

Already announced as in the running are Mrs. Helen Putnam of Petaluma, former president of the Petaluma school board and Harold E. Payton of San Rafael, former deputy assessor. Filed and actively on the campaign trail is Joseph G. Wilson, San Rafael attorney.

Wachsman has been toying with the idea for some time. Last month at the California Democratic Council meeting in Fresno, he had an interview with the party bigwigs.

Although he didn't get much encouragement there, he's still got the hankering and he has until 5 p.m. April 1 to make up his mind. But maybe he can do it by next week.

MEANWHILE WILSON, first of the aspirants to file his declaration of intent, decided to take a first hand look at the job last week. He picked a bad day, however. When he got to Sacramento in the afternoon, he found the Assembly had recessed until the next day and that there were no really interesting committees at work. Most of the people he wanted to meet had flown the coop.

So he talked with McCollister, visited State Controller Alan Cranston, and decided he'd come back at a more advantageous time.

POLITICAL HINT to all Marin residents:

You haven't much time left to register for the June primaries. If you are a newcomer, didn't vote in the last two elections, moved, or changed your name, you have to re-register.

Deadline is April 15, just a month away.

VICE PRESIDENT Richard Nixon, in San Francisco on a brief visit, had his picture taken with numerous political aspirants who hoped some votes would rub off.

One of these was William T. Bagley, San Rafael attorney, who is seeking Republican nomination for McCollister's seat.

As they were having the picture shot, Bagley said, so we're told:

"Mr. Nixon, I don't have any trouble getting pictures like this taken, but I do have trouble getting them into the newspapers."

Answered the Vice President of the United States: "Have you ever tried picking your nose?"

End of short course in picture journalism.

MARIN'S YOUNG Republicans have come up with an interesting fund-raising, or is it interest-raising, gimmick. Next Friday night they're having a champagne-theater party in Sausalito's Gate Theater.

Happily for the actors, the champagne will be served "on-stage" after, not before, the performance.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

We Would Judge; Not Be Judged

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

Capital punishment is an emotion (an affective state of consciousness in which joy, sorrow, fear, hate, revenge, or the like is experienced). It is a residual (a left over), propounding (to put forward for consideration, acceptance or adoption) lack of intelligence (capacity for understanding and for other forms of adoptive behavior; aptitude in grasping truths, facts, meaning; good mental capacity).

With the above terms clearly stated, it is evident that our legislators will not abolish capital punishment; most from fear: re-election. Nor will it be abolished by the "enlightened" public because, even with facts, what about fear, hate, revenge and a questioning of their moral fibre?

Most of us Yahoos (you look it up) won't commit anything because of the laws (and insurance), but in any real heat of passion, I question any of us not to react or act irrationally (without the faculty of, or not endowed with reason). Luckily, most of us don't come to the public "eye." We judge, but we would not be judged!

Ridiculous, don't you think?

Hard To Clamor For Man's Life

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

There seems to be the belief among the idealists, philosophers, religious groups, etc., that in this country justice is administered in a very severe and improper way. Although less than 100 years ago a man would be expected to lose his life for horse stealing, it is becoming unthinkable to expect a murderer to pay for his life for wantonly taking the life of another human being.

Large groups of reformists believe that people such as Mother Duncan, Robillard, Chessman, and a host of others, should be placed in a comfortable hotel for life (subject to parole, of course) and suffer for their crime.

To cite Chessman as an example, he committed a crime for which the penalty was death. It was not merely circumstantial evidence that convicted him on 17 counts of kidnap, rape and assault. Three women positively idenwhich was posted in the Washington office of the senator's press aide. It reads:

"As soon as this rush is over, I'm going to have a nervous breakdown. I worked for it, I owe it to myself, and nobody is going to deprive me of it."

tified him as the Red Light Bandit. Sometimes there is a case of mistaken identity, but three cases are far from mere coincidence and very unlikely.

There are certain natural laws that we obey. You do not cross the dividing strip on the freeway without knowing that sudden death awaits. There should be the same high regard for civil law by those who commit crimes of violence.

Governor Brown is swayed by public opinion. If the mail in favor of clemency is 2 to 1 he accepts this as a public opinion poll. He does not consider that it is much easier to write a letter favoring clemency than one clamoring for a man's life.

It is an oft quoted phrase that "statistics prove that capital punishment is no deterrent to crime." What statistics? It is part of an old "Ad Game"—repeat something of ten enough and people will believe it. Statistics proved that Dewey was president in 1948!

the country to come and tell us how to save our country.

The colossal crust of Georgia State Senator Guy Rutland Jr. beats all. He flouts good sense and good taste by coming to the most progressive state in the Union to mouth platitudes about our voting responsibilities when in his home state more than a quarter of the population is disfranchised because of skin color.

"We should think and talk and vote while we can, because, remember, in communism, none of these things are possible," he says. (I-J, 8 March)

Evidence from around the world shows that the U.S., because of its hypocritical practice of democracy ("Sure, you can vote in the South... as long as you're white"), is losing the battle for men's minds in the colored nations now emerging into freedom.

Go home, Rutland. Take your tinhorn back to Georgia and blow it loudly at the bigots who make a mockery of democracy in the eyes of those Africans and Asians and Latin Americans we are trying to save from iron grasp of the Kremlin.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

State Sen. Thomas F. Keating of San Rafael had high hopes the state Senate's finance committee would approve his request for a $200,000 appropriation to study the feasibility of a toll bridge to Contra Costa County.

San Rafael's City Manager Ray Bege announced plans for $79,000 worth of street repair work.

20 YEARS AGO

WPA funds aggregating $170,000 were rejected by the Marin County Board of Supervisors though these were available and had been allocated for courthouse additions. New plans were ordered providing, among other things, for housing San Rafael headquarters for the California Highway Patrol until separate accommodations were available.

Another Parking Battle Is Shaping Up On San Rafael's Fourth Street

You don't hear too much public comment about the idea of switching San Rafael's Fourth street to parallel parking. But that doesn't mean that forces from both sides are not at work.

Latest report is that some of the merchants are asking customers to sign either pro or con. Rumor has it that at one store, the list of names against parallel parking reached several pages, and the sheet in favor of parallel parking remained a blank. That is, until one little old lady, who always sticks up for the underdog, noticed the uneven match, and scrawled her name for parallel parking.

AMONG MERCHANTS, the picture is a little different. Slightly more than half of those polled are against changing over at this time. Thirty per cent would go for parallel right now.

But if more off-street parking spaces were provided first, then 40 per cent would favor switching to parallel, while 35 per cent are still opposed.

The next round in the parallel parking battle is set for March 21 before the city council.

A WELL-KNOWN night spot in the county is being watched closely because of recurring rumors that there's a show there that borders on the risqué. The trouble is, it's difficult for the gendarmes to determine whether it is well within the borderline or whether it has strayed south of the border.

SOMETHING AKIN to the four-minute mile was attained in the Marin County Courthouse this week. Jurors listened to a man charged with a traffic violation, then sped into deliberations. In four minutes they came rushing out with a unanimous verdict—the man was guilty of speeding. Which prompted one courthouse wit to comment: "If anybody was speeding, that jury sure was!"

IN FAIRFAX, everybody pitches in to help the Little Leaguers get started in their spring training. The coaches asked all parents to help out the boys and requested them to complete this question: "I will be able to assist in the following way..." One mother replied: "By throwing out the first ball."

IF YOU'VE EVER got your cruiser stuck in the mud along San Rafael Canal, the chamber of commerce would like to know about it.

It seems Congressman Clem Miller is trying to get federal aid to dredge the canal. The San Rafael chamber would like to back up the need for dredging with pictures or information showing how much trouble the mud is causing to the heavy traffic along the canal. If you were ever an unfortunate statistic, the C. of C. would like to hear from you.

IN CASE OF any death where there is some question as to the cause, better let the coroner know before any burial arrangements are made. The last time anybody tried otherwise we understand they had to exhumate the body to set the record straight.

Brown Came Out Well In Debate Over Ending Of Capital Punishment

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Supporters and critics of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, who were prone to count him out after his handling of the Caryl Chessman reprieve and resultant saddling of the legislature with the capital punishment issue in this special session year, must admit he got off the canvas and came through in near-championship form.

The bill to outlaw capital punishment, amended at the last minute to declare a three-year moratorium, failed to win approval in the senate Judiciary Committee by a vote of 8 noes and 7 ayes. In that similar bills have met defeat one way or another 16 times in the past 27 years, it would appear this was just another defeat and Brown was not justified in bringing the subject before the legislature.

WHILE THERE were charges and widespread belief that Brown's action in reprieving Chessman may have been motivated by an emotional barrage of letters, telegrams and telephone calls, and that the special session of the legislature was thrown in to help justify the controversial reprieve, the senate committee's action would appear to have backed up the governor in his acts.

It was probably the best hearing the bill ever has had; the results were a clear indication of considerable doubt in the minds of the 15 lawyers who sit on the committee. The hearing was on a high plane, with only a few emotional outbursts.

BOTH OPPONENTS and proponents of the abolition of capital punishment admitted the 12-hour hearing might have set the stage for a successful fight in 1961, when the legislators surely will consider the matter once more. By that time, there is every likelihood Chessman, whose long, drawn-out case hurt the bill this year, will be dead and able to exert no more influence on the subject.

While there appeared to be little question that Governor Brown regained much of what ever stature he might have lost in the past few weeks, it also should not be presumed that his "successful defeat" before the Judiciary Committee was one which came about without some doing.

Seldom has a committee been polled so completely by objective newsmen and others with a marked similarity of results. Prior to the hearing, it had been established there were 10 votes against the bill and five for it, in most of the polls.

THE MAIN BILL had been debated 12 hours, the amended version was not debated 12 seconds. This could lead one to the conclusion the weakening amendments were adopted to swing the two votes over to the governor — with the amendments considered a partial answer for the two switching senators to take home to their people.

In the lengthy hearing, the governor also went back on his word that he would take no action to push for approval would not use his secretarial staff to lobby the bill. At least two members of Brown's staff were active at the hearing throughout the day, especially Cecil Poole, Brown's clemency secretary.

In addition, witnesses were imported from long distances admittedly being reimbursed from the governor's emergency fund — a taxpayer-supported fund.

Marin Church Joins In Gift To Japan

The Church of Our Saviour, Episcopal, of Mill Valley is one of more than 7,000 churches which are contributing money toward the Episcopal Church's gift of a nuclear reactor to be used for research at St. Paul's University and St. Luke's Hospital in Tokyo.

The reactor will be a birthday present from the Episcopal Church to the Nippon Seikokai (Anglican Church in Japan) which is celebrating its hundredth anniversary. It will be the second reactor and the first privately-owned one in Japan, according to Roy A. Ibach of Mill Valley. Estimated cost of the reactor is $500,000, Ibach said. The Episcopal Church will contribute $360,000 of this and Japan's Fuji Electrical Co. the balance.

Surprising Oregon Challenges Bears

SEATTLE (AP) — The cool California Bears, holdover national champions, will play tonight for the 1960 Far West regional NCAA basketball title, and that's no surprise.

Oregon also will play—and that's an eyebrow lifter.

The Bears, who won the Santa Clara 69-49 last night according to the script. And then the Webfoots of Oregon threw the script away. They whipped the highly favored Utah Redskins 65-54 and made it look alarmingly easy—for California—easy.

Santa Clara and Utah meet tonight in a consolation game and Oregon gets another chance to look at the script in the title game against California, second-rated in the Associated Press poll. In a previous meeting this season the score was California 70, Oregon 45. The winner earns a trip to the nationals in San Francisco next weekend.

A crowd of 5,000 sat quietly and admired the California technique as the Santa Clara Broncos were slowly but methodically crunched. The Bears, unable to do a thing against the Bear defense, were six points behind after five minutes and things got worse.

They tried the zone defense, the man-for-man and the full-court press and trailed once by 23 points. Jim Russi was the only Bronco with shooting luck and his 20 points were high for the game. All-America Darrall Imhoff and Earl Shultz scored 16 each for California.

The Utes, ranked sixth in the Associated Press poll, brought a 25-2 record to the regionals. Unranked Oregon was 18-9.

The Webfoots shot over the Ute zone defense or sliced through it to take a 16-5 lead in the first 10 minutes. Once the margin climbed to 21 points.

Glenn Moore of Oregon scored 19 points and held Utah's ace, Bill McGill, to 6. Chuck Rask tallied 18 for Oregon and directed the attack that routed the Utah press and overwhelmed the Utah zone defense.

A Visit To Cubs' Camp; Banks Says Mays Will Win N.L. Batting Title

MESA, Ariz.: It is always a treat to stopover here and take a quick look at the Chicago Cubs. The players are warm and friendly and talkative as all get out. It might be on account of Jolly Cholly Grimm, the veteran manager, who, on and off, has bossed the Windy City club 14 times. Three of those years were highly successful, the Cubs winning pennants in 1932, 1935, and 1945.

There are very few managers with the background of the Cub boss. To begin with he's an interesting character and seems to inspire anyone who works for or with him.

Today when some of the Giant correspondents moved into his balliwick, Cholly immediately had most of his star performers around so they could answer questions.

Ernie Banks made a lot of conversation predicting Willie Mays would lead the league in hitting. And "yessing" him on the idea was Richie Ashburn, the former Philly flyhawk who was shipped to the Cubs last winter.

ASBURN THINKS the Giants have a swell chance to cop the pennant in 1960 and he makes no bones about it. He does rate Milwaukee as real threats and thinks the Dodgers might be a bit rough in the flag chasing derby.

Grimm sizes up the coming pennant race and his own team's chances by saying it'll be an interesting fight.

"The National League has always been a well-balanced league," Cholly states. "And this year in particular I look for an even tighter race than last year."

"So many of the second division clubs have bolstered their lineups that it's hard to say what club we can or cannot take."

"We wound up last year with 74 won and 80 lost," explains the Cub skipper.

"AND IT IS interesting to note that we beat the Giants and Pirates 12 times, the Dodgers 11. The biggest trouble the Cubs had in 1959 were whipping the second division clubs."

One of the press gang asked Banks what pitcher gave him the least trouble at bat in 1959.

"That's a secret," Banks replied. "I'm not letting him know."

Being selected the Most Valuable Player in the National League in 1959 for the second time in a row, hasn't affected Banks. He wears the same size cap and isn't afraid to speak up and answer almost anything.

"There are a few little trade secrets a fellow just has to keep to himself, and for that reason I never speak about my ability to hit certain pitchers," Banks said.

THE CUBS' pitching staff is one of the youngest in the league.

Bob Anderson, Glenn Hobbie, Dick Drott, Moe Drabowsky and Dick Ellsworth are just slightly past the voting age.

Don Elston, the fireball right-hander, and Art Ceccarelli are oldtimers and yet just slightly over the 30-year age bracket.

One thing the Cubs have a lot of is catchers. They landed Del Rice, an oldtimer, as a free agent and Skipper Grimm is counting heavily on him to help the young pitchers. Cal Neenan, Sammy Taylor and Earl Averill are the other receivers, all of 'em good enough for any club in a pennant scrap.

Dale Long and Dick Gernert are waging a battle for the first base job.

TONY TAYLOR at second and Banks at shortstop make up a nice second base combination. So far the Cubs are pretty solid on a new infielder named Ron Santo who is the third base candidate. Last year at San Antonio he batted a solid .327, including 35 two-baggers. When and if Santo makes good the Cubs will ship Frank Thomas to the outfield.

And speaking of the Cub outfield, you get a good sizeup when you mention such whacky hitters as George Altman, Richie Ashburn, Walt Moryn and Irv Noren.

So all in all the Cubs may not finish better than fourth behind the Braves, Giants and Dodgers but they could take it all without upsetting the apple-cart too much.

SANTA ROSA WINS

Tam Eliminated From Tournament

Basketball season ended officially last night for Tamalpais High School as its Indians were dropped from the Tournament of Champions by the Santa Rosa Panthers, 38-30.

St. Ignatius of San Francisco scored a sensational 55-54 upset over Richmond, which Thursday spanked Tam 57-27, and will battle McClymonds of Oakland tonight for the championship. McClymonds, seeking its third straight T of C crown, topped Clayton Valley, 51-38, in the championship semi-finals and Monterey downed Hayward 52-43 in yesterday's other consolation game.

Thomas, a 19-year-old Boston University sophomore, was the main attraction in the Chicago Relays and he didn't disappoint anyone in the capacity crowd of 10,000 in the International Amphitheatre last night.

He set a new mark of 7-2½ which he said he hopes to better tonight when he competes in the Greater Boston Collegiate meet at Medford, Mass.

The crowd let out a thunderous roar, then went silent when the announcer said the height had to be remeasured. Another roar went up when the announcement came that Thomas had cleared 7-2½.

THOMAS TO TRY TO BETTER 7-2½ TONIGHT

ARACK HIGH
Arack led all scorers with 14 points, including six for six from the foul line, and hauled down 10 rebounds as Santa Rosa out-rebounded Tam 31-29.

Tam could connect on only 13 of 51 field goal attempts and the only injun to hit in double figures was Conrad Hoelger with 12.

Tam represented the Marin County League in the tourney.

St. Raphael's In CYO Basketball Finals Tomorrow

CYO basketball fans anticipate a thriller tomorrow when the 100-pound division teams of St. Raphael's and St. Emydius parishes clash at San Francisco's Riordan High School for the San Francisco archdiocesan championship. They'll tipoff at 1 p.m.

The game will be a replay of last year's title showdown in which the San Rafael boys, then 90-pounders, won a 22-21 decision. Both parishes have substantially the same rosters as last year's.

St. Raphael's qualified for tomorrow's finals by nipping a strong St. Elizabeth's of Oakland last Sunday, 25-21. Tom Massio and Bob Redding each tallied two points in the final minutes to sew up the victory.

Tomorrow's championships will start at 10 a.m. with eight games ranging from 70-pounders to unlimiteds.

Rig Fears Injuries, Cautious With Stars

TUCSON (AP)—The San Francisco Giants invaded Tucson today to open their Cactus League season against the Cleveland Indians.

Manager Bill Rigney made it plain that he planned to bring his regulars along slowly during the exhibition games in order to have the Giants hitting full stride when the regular National League season opens April 12.

This could turn out to be a psychological problem, Rigney wants Willie Mays to take it easy in the early games. Willie doesn't like to play that way. The Say Hey kid is an all-out competitor.

Rigney points out that he's seen three fine Giant outfielders break their legs in exhibition games over the past 10 years—Whitey Lockman, Monte Irvin and Bobby Thomson.

"We try to give the folks who pay to see the exhibitions their money's worth," Rigney says, "but let's face it—we're here to get ready for the big ones."

Orlando Cepeda didn't come down from Phoenix. He just arrived in camp Thursday night and will take a few days loosening up. The powerful Puerto Rican is in fine shape after playing in the Caribbean Winter League.

Another regular who won't see action today is third baseman Jim Davenport. Rigney is keeping a close rein on the fine young glove man while he continues to recuperate from an off-season knee operation.

Probably the most interesting experiment in today's opener will be the play of Andre Rodgers, who a year ago

Museum Gets 1866 Tale Of San Rafael

"The town is American in its population and buildings. The houses are nearly all of wood."

That was the state of affairs in San Rafael in 1866, according to an article printed in the Alta California on April 13 of that year.

The paper, a relic, has been donated to the Historical Museum of the Marin County Historical Society at Boyd Park Lodge, San Rafael, by Dr. Fred E. Sawyer of San Rafael.

"The site is at the head of the tule land," the article says, "near the hills on the northern side of the valley, which is there half a mile across. The population may be 500."

Articles such as this and other items of historical interest may be seen at the museum by visitors, who, according to Roy D. Graves, curator, are becoming more numerous.

A table, donated by Miss Edythe Foster of San Rafael, has legs that were made from the spindles in the first staircase in the county courthouse.

Mrs. Mary Spellman of San Francisco, longtime member of the Marin historical group, and a former San Rafael resident, has given a picture of the 1864 graduating class of the old B Street School. Mrs. Spellman, a member of the class, has identified all the members.

radio again and establish contact. This could happen in 1963.

The 150-watt won't be turned on until the probe is about five million miles out, about a month from now.

This will be by far the longest distance in space covered by man-made radio transmission, either Soviet or American. The previous record was set by the 13-pound Pioneer IV, which even now is circling the sun. Its radio faded out at 407,000 miles away.

The Soviets still hold the weight championship. Their Mecha probe tipped in at 1½ tons. Pioneer V weighs just about 95 pounds. This reflects the Soviet advantage in rocket thrust.

The Thor-Able launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla., developed 165,000 pounds of thrust. The three-stage rocket, the intricate liquid-fueled kind, did its work with almost absolute precision.

Pioneer V's main job is to give scientists a better picture of what conditions can be expected when men venture out into the solar system.

It is measuring radiation, mysterious gases or "plasma" emitted by the sun, magnetic fields, temperature and the impact of tiny meteors.

The probe is not intended to hit Venus or come back to earth. It is investigating the entire space area between the planets. Earth's distance from the sun is about 93 million miles. Venus is about 67 million miles from the sun. When it settles into its elliptical orbit, Pioneer V will cover just about all the space between them.

Charles A. DeTurk, chief of the state division of beaches and parks, Newton B. Drury, who retired last spring as chief of the post, Marin supervisors except William Fusselman who was unable to attend, were among the honored guests.

The following were elected officers:

Mrs. Livermore, president; Dr. Paul Wilson, Mrs. B. K. Dunshee, Dr. Joel F. Gustafson, vice presidents; Heatherston, secretary; Harry Cooper Jr., treasurer; Mrs. T. C. Wellman of Kentfield, Eric L. Pedley and Merritt K. Ruddock, both of Belvedere, new members of the board of directors.

The meeting closed with the first showing of a spectacular color film, "Island in Time," of the Point Reyes area.

Nomination Papers For Terra Linda District Available

Persons wishing to take out and file nomination papers for election to the board of directors of the Terra Linda Community Services District must do so with Jack Brandon, general manager of the district.

Brandon of 649 Bamboo Terrace, has been appointed clerk of the board for the special purpose of handling this election matter, it was announced today by Joseph R. Gunn III, president of the board.

Papers must be filed by April 1. Three terms on the board are expiring, those of Murray Peterson, William Munson and John P. Namle. None have indicated whether they will run again. Previously it was erroneously reported that Elmer Johnson's term was expiring.

2nd Street Detour Slated

Beginning Tuesday, westbound traffic on San Rafael's Second street will be detoured at D and E street to permit laying a new sewer trunk line along Second.

City Engineer Dominic Selmi said that the detour between D and E streets will be in effect for several days. Eastbound traffic will be permitted to proceed along Second as usual.

Santa Rosa contractors Kirkwood and Bly are putting in a trunk line from D street along Second to the Miracle Mile, then along Fourth street to Greenfield avenue. The $60,000 project is expected to take about four months.

To avoid the temporary blockade, engineer Selmi asks westbound motorists to turn off onto Third, then get back onto Second or Fourth street for the trip toward San Anselmo.

Fund Building Up For Peri Memorial

A memorial fund honoring the late Andy Peri, Fairfax police chief, is growing. City Clerk Alice Leonosio reported today, with $640 already collected.

Fairfax resident Larry Walsh reported that a meeting was held Thursday night in the city council chambers in an effort to form a citizens committee for the fund.

He said representatives of the Lions Club, Native Sons and the Fairfax Merchants Assn. attended the meeting, and will go back to their organizations for instructions on whether they can be members of a fund committee.

Juanita Hearing Scheduled April 13

Hearing of an accusation against Juanita Musson which may result in revocation of the liquor license of her Juanita's Galley in Sausalito is scheduled for April 13 at 1:30 p.m. in the San Rafael City Hall council chambers, the state department of Alcoholic Beverage Control announced today.

Ivoves Dains will be hearing officer.

The ABC charges Mrs. Musson is not a fit and proper person to be a liquor licensee, in view of her numerous arrests involving intoxication and disturbing the peace.

Belvedere Man's Car Hit In Rear

Richard N. Bon of 11 Laurel avenue, Belvedere, was erroneously reported by the Independent-Journal yesterday to have been the driver of a car responsible for a three-car collision Thursday on Highway 101 near Sausalito.

Bon actually was victim, being at the head of the line rather than coming up from behind. A car driven by Mrs. Elizabeth Rinehardt Perrine, 112 Sycamore, Mill Valley, struck a vehicle driven by Rufus Leo Crowe of 45 Midway avenue, Mill Valley, which in turn hit Bon's car.

Reed District Fete Slated March 20

Dedication ceremonies for the Bel Aire School addition and celebration of the first 10 years of Reed Union School District's unionization will be held March 20, at the school at 2 p.m.

Dr. Wallace W. Hall, associate superintendent of instruction for the State of California and former Marin County superintendent of schools, will give the dedicatory remarks. Hall, a resident of Belvedere, is a former trustee of the Belvedere School before unionization.

Water Problem To Be Meeting Topic

The Marin Federation of Improvement Clubs will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at the county court house to discuss whether available water supply should be made a condition for issuing building permits.

The subject has come up at the insistence of the Muir Woods Park Improvement Assn., which last summer called on the board of supervisors to prohibit issuance of building permits where there was a water shortage.

At the time, residents of Muir Woods Park found little more than a trickle of water in their supply lines. Also slated for discussion are changes in by-laws and need for an executive secretary.

PALO ALTO MAY PUT BITE ON BARKING DOGS

PALO ALTO (UPD)—The Palo Alto City Council will vote Monday night on a proposed ordinance designed, in its author's words, to "put teeth into regulations against barking dogs."

The law written by City Atty. John Nimocks would make it a misdemeanor to keep noisy pets. Residents would be subject to $500 fines if their dogs disturb the peace by "any sound or cry."

In answer to protests against the proposed law, Vice Mayor Stanley R. Evans said it would not be invoked after just one bark.

Present city laws allow only warnings to owners of noisy pets.

Motherwell Trial Off Till Monday

DOWNIEVILLE (UPD)—The Larry Lord Motherwell murder trial will resume Monday with the defense due to conclude its scathing attack on the state's admittedly circumstantial evidence against the defendant.

"Motherwell may be a liar, an impersonator, a con-man and a Romeo," defense attorney Robert Fugazi said yesterday, "but that doesn't mean he's a murderer."

Motherwell is charged with killing 72-year-old Mrs. Pearl Putney near here in 1958 and absconding with her $50,000 in cash and bonds.

Fugazi charged that the evidence amounted to nothing even though the prosecution had "scraped the bottom of the barrel."

Tavern Owner Collapses During Divorce Hearing

San Francisco bar owner Donald J. Aquilino, 46, who collapsed in a Marin court room yesterday at an apparent heart attack spent a "good night" in San Francisco's Chinese Hospital and is "feeling much better," the hospital said today.

Aquilino was defending himself against a divorce action in Superior Court when he collapsed as he stepped off the witness stand of an apparent heart attack.

Judge Richard M. Sims, who has heard the case for four days, recessed proceedings until March 25.

Mrs. Dorothy M. Aquilino, about 50, formerly of San Anselmo and now living in Southern California, is suing for divorce and a division of community property. Aquilino operates the Tony Pandy bar in San Francisco. They were married twice, from 1937 to 1950, and again from 1957 until their separation in 1958.

Mrs. Novak Again Loses Court Plea

Mrs. Maria Novak, 33, yesterday lost her plea to be allowed to remain with her children in her Novato mansion while her main divorce battle is pending against developer John E. Novak, 41.

Novak's attorney, Raymond L. Hanson, said his client hopes to move into the historic Trumbull home immediately. When asked what he would do if Mrs. Novak refuses to move, Hanson said: "We'll cross that bridge when we get to it."

Mrs. Novak's attorney, Berwyn Rice, argued vigorously for a stay of execution before Judge Thomas F. Keating. He also asked the judge to appoint a psychiatrist to examine the Novaks' oldest son, John Jr., 10. Rice said the boy is emotionally disturbed because of the divorce battle.

On Tuesday, Judge Keating ordered Mrs. Novak to give up the home, and awarded temporary custody of their two sons to Novak. Yesterday, the judge upheld his earlier decision. Keating reasoned that if the temporary custody order is stayed pending the main divorce battle, then the temporary order is in effect nullified. On the appointment of a psychiatrist, the judge pointed out that this had not been brought up during the five-day custody battle and the request could not be granted at this time.

After the hearing, Rice said he would advise Mrs. Novak to find a home somewhere else for the time being.

Under the court's temporary order, Mrs. Novak retains custody of her 16-year-old daughter, retains her Cadillac, and gets $400 per month support.

Air Force Captain Jailed After Crash

An Air Force captain landed in the Marin County Jail early today on charges of drunken driving and of hit and run involving an unattended car.

Capt. Eugene Horace Evans, 38, of 28th Air Division Headquarters, Hamilton Air Force Base, was later released on $368 bail.

He was arrested shortly after 3 a.m. by Deputy Sheriff Harvey Teague after all-county units had been advised of a report from Ronald George Thiemann of 1232 Irwin street, San Rafael.

Thiemann told San Rafael police he heard a crash outside his home at 2:18 a.m., and looked out the window to find his 1953 Colorado-licensed sedan a total wreck. The car which had struck it, which he was able to describe in detail, was just pulling away.

On the basis of the description the car was located near 2815 Redwood Highway, and Evans was arrested.

Kentfield Doctor Struck Her, His Wife Claims

The wife of a Kentfield doctor testified yesterday she was struck and knocked down by her husband, Dr. Douglas E. Ramsey, during a disturbance at her home last Jan. 3.

Roberta J. Ramsey of 43 Kent avenue said she was struck with the open hand on her face about seven times. Dr. Ramsey, who lives at 121 Kent avenue, is charged with committing battery against her.

The doctor's attorney, Jerome Duffy, contends the doctor was acting in self defense, after she first attacked him.

The trial, before Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court, will continue at 3 p.m. Monday.

Under questioning by Deputy Dist. Atty. Hadden Roth, the prosecutor, Mrs. Ramsey said her husband had moved out of her home in June of last year. On Jan. 3, she said, she came home and found Dr. Ramsey in her bedroom.

She said she asked him what he was doing in her home, and he walked up to her and straight-armed her with the open hand, knocking her down. She testified the doctor then hit her with the open hand several more times and threatened to kill her.

The doctor has not given his side of the story yet. However, his attorney declared that it was Mrs. Ramsey who attacked the doctor, and the doctor only put out his hand to ward her off.

Mrs. Ramsey is scheduled to resume her testimony Monday.

Explosion Leaves 200 Homeless In Culver City

CULVER CITY (AP)—An explosion that demolished a two-story apartment house yesterday left 200 persons homeless.

Seventeen persons were taken to a hospital but none was seriously injured and only two remained overnight.

Leaking gas was blamed for the blast, which damaged two nearby buildings.

A witness, Erza Benjamin, said he "saw the building go up, lifted almost entirely off the ground." A man working in his yard a block away was knocked to the ground.

It's Not Wrong To Permit Bright Child To Teach Herself To Read

M.J.—“Our girl is 4. She has tried to stop her. However, we taught herself to read. At first she asked us about words she saw on signs. She remembered them. Now she can read many simple sentences. We have not push children into reading before they have the mental development needed. But it is not wrong to let a bright child teach herself. I keep track of more than 1,000 highly gifted boys and girls. A large proportion of them taught themselves to read at 4, as your girl did. Probably she'll soon want to go to the library, and check out a primer or two. Don't hold her back.

S.V.—“Our son is almost 18. He is a freshman at college. This is the first time he has been away from home. He has raised a scraggly beard, which looks awful. He wears sweat-shirts and pretends to be a beatnik. I talked with the freshman counselor. He said not to worry. He assured us that our son is doing well in his studies. He said he will outgrow the beatnik phase. Wouldn't it be safer to bring our boy home where we can control him?”

Reply.—Better let him stay. Almost certainly his beatnik pose is a part of his teenage rebellion against childhood. If you bring him home you'll make it worse. Some youngsters rebel when they are 13 or 14. Some not until they are 17 or 18. Let him get out of his system.

J.R.—“Our boy does not want to play basketball, football or any team sport. Yet he is a capable athlete. He is a star tennis player. I can't understand him. What is wrong?”

Reply.—Nothing is wrong. Boys are different. Some of them need the emotional support and fun which comes from having teammates. Others prefer to go it alone. Let him make his own choice.

Education Leaders Disturbed By Solons' Master Plan Bill

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A six-man delegation representing the board of regents of the University of California and the state Board of Education will meet with legislative leaders Tuesday in Sacramento to urge favorable education legislation.

Jesse Steinhart, San Francisco; Edward W. Carter and Edwin W. Pauley, both of Los Angeles, will represent the board of regents. The Board of Education will be represented by Louis Heilbron, San Francisco; Warren Christopher, Los Angeles; and Thomas Braden, also Los Angeles.

The delegation will confer with legislators in an effort to make the current Miller Bill more like the Grunsky-Donahoe Bill, introduced at the special session of the Legislature.

The Grunsky-Donahoe Bill embodied a master plan for higher education drawn up by a team of educators headed by Dr. Arthur Coons of Occidental.

Dr. Dean McHenry, assistant to President Clark Kerr of the University of California, outlined significant changes made by the legislators in the educators' plan.

“The autonomy of the state colleges was removed,” McHenry said. “They would not manage their own houses, their personnel and finances.”

McHenry said changes have been made in certain provisions concerning the university. “A post-audit of finances, for example, is required for presentation to the governor and the Legislature.”

“And there is no re-affirmation of the power of the regents to govern the university—leaving the way open to remove certain things by implication.”

“The status of the coordinating council, the unifying agency made up of representatives of the four types of higher education institutions” has been changed. It has been taken out of the constitution and put into statutory form—except for one amendment.

“The constitutional amendment is a ‘hook’ by which the legislators can put anything they want in the education code,” McHenry concluded.

Roy Simpson, secretary of the Board of Education, said he was “not happy with a program which gives us no advantages we do not have now.”

Simpson said it might be wise to wait until 1961 for legislation on this vital issue.

“A bill is going to pass in the 1960 session of the Legislature,” Assemblywoman Dorothy Donahoe (D-Kern), a sponsor of the original bill, told the group. “We might as well make it the best possible bill,” she added.

Assembly Speaker Pro Tem Carlos R. (D-Alameda), said, “I disagree with that. Something may come out of the Senate but not the Assembly when they hear from home.”

Kerr said that controlling faculty personnel is “the great issue” between the educators and solons.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Cross Burners Nabbed

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Police today reported picking up 10 white youths in connection with cross-burnings and planned cross-burnings at a Negro university here.

Four of the boys admitted burning a cross and placing anti-integration signs on Dillard University campus, the scene of a peaceful demonstration march this week to show support for Negro college students staging sit-downs at non-integrated lunch counters throughout the South.

Six other youths were arrested after admitting plans to burn a cross at Dillard.

Death Penalties Upheld

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court has upheld the death sentences of Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Duncan and the two men she hired to kill her daughter-in-law.

The sentences have been on automatic appeal for nearly a year since the 55-year-old Santa Barbara woman was convicted in Ventura County of engineering the slaying of Olga Duncan, 30, wife of her son, Frank.

The two men—Luis Moya and Augustine Baldonado — abducted the pregnant victim and strangled her Nov. 17, 1958.

Income Up In State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians are making more money than ever and getting a little more for it than they have in past years.

This was noted yesterday in a state Finance Department report that California personal income hit a record $39,975,000,000 in 1959 — 3.2 billion dollars over 1958.

Prices went up 1.8 per cent, the department said, but increases in average income made it possible for Californians' money to go 5 per cent further in buying consumer goods than it did in 1958.

Graham In Egypt

CAIRO (UPI) — Billy Graham took in more of the sights of this ancient land today before completing his four-day visit to Egypt Sunday with a giant evangelistic rally. His next stop will be the Jordan sector of Jerusalem.

France To Fete K

PARIS (UPI) — France is preparing a rousing reception for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's arrival Tuesday for a two-week visit but has yet to announce an official itinerary.

Meg, Fiance Together

BATH, England (UPI) — Princess Margaret and Anthony Armstrong-Jones are spending the weekend at the home of a wealthy young engineer who may be best man at their wedding.

They arrived separately last night at the 18th Century manor house of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremy Fry. The romance of the princess and the commoner blossomed secretly during a visit to the manor last October.

Their sentimental return increased speculation that Fry, 35-year-old engineer and heir to the Fry chocolate fortune, would be best man at the May 6 wedding of Margaret and the society photographer in Westminster Abbey.

State Moving Up

STOCKTON (UPI) — California is on the threshold of displacing New York as the nation's most powerful political and economic unit, Controller Alan Cranston said today.

Within five years, he said in a speech prepared for the San Joaquin County Farm Bureau, California will become the most populous state in the union.

Cranston called on California to meet the responsibilities that will come with this new power and praised Gov. Edmund G. Brown's administration for government "that will stand as an example for administrations to come."

Naturalist Dies

CARMEL (UPI) — Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews, world-famed naturalist who wrote as eloquently of housecats as he did of whales and dinosaurs, is dead of a heart attack at 76.

The retired former director of the American Museum of Natural History in New York died in Monterey Peninsula Community Hospital last night.

Prince Taken Home

TOKYO (UPI) — Crown Princess Michiko took her 18-day-old son home from the hospital today. Both were reported "doing very well." The prince, five pounds nine ounces at birth, now weighs six pounds 11 ounces.

Racket Figure Slain

YOUNGSTON, Ohio (UPI) — A shotgun blasted death from ambush last night to a Youngstown gambling rackets figure and to a young woman on whom he was calling.

S. Joseph (Sandy) Naples, 50, fired six revolver shots before he died from wounds in the chest and head. Mary Ann Vrancich, 28, who was on her porch to greet Naples when he arrived, was hit in the left chest. She died moments after arriving at South Side Hospital.

Police Capt. William R. Golden said a shotgun was found near the curb in front of the house. He said one of Naples' shots might have struck the killer.

Mrs. FDR Threatened

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI) — A heavy guard of state troopers and sheriff's deputies surrounded Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt last night after an anonymous telephone caller threatened to kill her.

The clerk reported a man said he would kill Mrs. Roosevelt and State Senator Ed Price of Bradenton. Then the caller hung up.

Lanza Widow Dies

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — Singer Mario Lanza's widow, once known as Hollywood's most patient wife because of her late husband's stormy antics, died yesterday.

A maid found the pajama-clad body of Betty Lanza in bed in her rented mansion. Police say the 37-year-old widow apparently died of natural causes. Her brother, Bert Hicks, said she died "of a broken heart."

"She never recovered from Mario's loss," he said. "Her life seemed empty."

Kills Baby-Sitters

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Police said an amateur gunsmith admitted today he shot and killed two young baby-sitters in his home last night because he "felt the urge to do it."

Henry C. Warth was apprehended early today after a six-hour search in three states. Authorities said he confessed to killing Linda Qualls, 12, and her 13-year-old cousin, Penny Qualls, who was baby-sitting for his own children.

Actors, Studios Talk

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The striking Screen Actors Guild and the seven major studios plan another bargaining session Tuesday.

They held their first meeting yesterday since the 14,000-member guild struck last Monday. Both parties refused to give details.

Safe Landing

SHANNON, Ireland (UPI) — A U.S. Overseas National Airline plane with 104 persons aboard landed safely today on three engines, escorted by a British plane which had answered its SOS.

The DC6 plane, with 97 passengers and a crew of seven, lost power in one engine 400 miles west of the Irish coast on a flight from Gander, Newfoundland, and radioed an SOS.

A Royal Air Force Shackleton rescue plane picked up the airliner 200 miles at sea and escorted it to Shannon.

Real Headache

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Spencer Ham's reward for a robbery hoax was a bump on the head and two police charges.

Ham, a 20-year-old delivery boy, told police this tale:

He arranged for another man to rob him while he was taking grocery store receipts to a bank. The other man hit him over the head and took $398, the idea being to split with Ham later.

The man has not been seen since. Ham was charged with stealing and filing a false report.

Another Quake Victim Saved From Ruins

RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Another survivor of the Agadir earthquakes was pulled out of the ruins of the city's Moslem quarter today, 12 days after the disaster.

The rescue of Mohamed Ben Hambouche brought to 13 the number of quake victims found alive in the past three days, after hope had been virtually abandoned. An estimated 12,000 persons were killed in the Feb. 29 quakes, most of them in the Talbordj quarter where Hambouche was found.

The other victims were starving and exhausted, but Hambouche was in good shape. He had found food in the wreckage of his home and suffered only from thirst.

FIRST NEWS

The first reports of the quake's effects in the remote hill villages overlooking the city were received today with the return of a relief column that reached them.

Relief officials said that 287 Moroccans were killed and 145 injured by the shocks that destroyed Agadir. The villages are 3,000 feet up the mountains and have no communication with the city.

The body of one of the four Americans known to have died in the disaster was recovered yesterday. George Christo, 56, of San Francisco, was killed in the ruins of the Saada resort hotel.

OTHER VICTIMS

Andrew Kalpakoff, also of San Francisco, and Mrs. Werner Bauer of Placentia also were in the hotel. Their bodies have not been located.

Kalpakoff was the brother of bus driver Charles W. Smith of 155 Auburn street, San Rafael. Kalpakoff visited his brother in Marin last Christmas.

The fourth American victim was Mrs. Bauer's daughter Nora, 16, who died of an embolism Wednesday in an American base hospital. Miss Bauer suffered minor leg injuries and multiple abrasions and contusions in the quake.

Transit Engineers To Give Report

Engineering plans for the Bay Area's proposed new 123-mile rapid transit system will be presented Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Tamalpais High School.

T. J. De Lasaux of Mill Valley, member of the transit district board of directors, will be on hand along with other officials and consulting engineers to explain the engineering progress report to the public.

Southerners In House Brace For Rights Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Southern House members are bracing themselves for an attempt next week to complete the Senate's action in knocking out a major point of the civil rights bill.

Supporters of the measure said they could block such a move.

The Southerners may get their chance to try Monday. Both the House and Senate were in recess today.

The section involved — still in the House bill and therefore still alive — would make it a federal crime to interfere by force or threats with enforcement of a federal court school integration order.

In a quick one-two yesterday, the Senate first adopted an amendment offered by Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) to broaden the section to apply to injunctions in labor cases and all other federal court orders.

Then some strong supporters of the civil rights bill teamed up with some Southerners to kill the whole section. Labor groups were strongly opposed to having the section apply to labor injunctions.

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said, "The Senate has demonstrated again that reason prevails and that it will reject the extremists. I believe now, as I have all along, that the Senate will pass a good moderate bill."

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) told newsmen that the move to table the whole section stemmed from the fact that "many liberals, including myself, became convinced that the attorney general had not made a case" for it. Clark said the effect of the Lausche amendment would be "to clutter it up with this anti-labor amendment."

In the House, one of the leaders of the Southern group, Rep. Edwin E. Willis (D-Pa.) said an amendment similar to Lausche's had been prepared for House consideration regardless of what the Senate did.

"We are certainly encouraged by the Senate action," Willis said. But he stopped short of predicting similar success for the Southerners in the House. If the two bodies pass the legislation in different form, a conference will be necessary to iron out the discrepancies — but first the Southern-led House Rules Committee would have another chance to delay action.

High School Science Labs Given Grant

Science students at Tamalpais, Sir Francis Drake and Redwood high schools will get almost 200 new pieces of equipment ranging from glass blower sets to a labline incubator and embedding oven.

A federal grant for half of $11,688 has been approved for science equipment in the three schools of the Tamalpais Union High School District. Supt. Chester G. Carlisle has announced.

The grant was made under provisions of Title 3 of the National Defense Education Act on application prepared by Carlisle and Robert D. Torrey, district director of instruction.

More than 1,000 biology students and 300 physiology students of Tamalpais, Sir Francis Drake and Redwood High Schools will be involved, said Carlisle. In addition, 120 chemistry students and 40 physics students at Drake, and the special advanced bacteriology class of nine students at Tamalpais will benefit, Torrey pointed out. Fifteen science teachers are involved.

Finch Jurors Maintain Air Of Amiability

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The hours—and the rumors—keep piling up but the Finch murder trial jury maintains an air of unruffled amiability — despite the serious questions it must resolve.

The jury begins its eighth day of deliberations today — trying to determine the fate of Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42-year-old surgeon, and his 23-year-old sweetheart, Carole Tregoff.

GAS CHAMBER POSSIBLE
The co-defendants are accused of killing the doctor's wife, Barbara Jean Finch, 36, last July 18. They are charged with murder and conspiracy. If convicted, they could be condemned to the gas chamber or life imprisonment.

The seven-man, five-women jury has spent 35 hours in actual deliberation and nine hours re-hearing transcripts of the trial testimony.

The jurors will have Sunday off and resume work Monday — if necessary.

OBSERVERS BAFFLED
Observers trying to assess the jury's stand are a bit mystified. The jurors appear outwardly congenial at least. They made only two requests while deliberating yesterday — they wanted a pencil sharpened and better ventilation in the jury room.

Presiding Judge Walter R. Evans indicated that as long as the jury continues to work in a friendly atmosphere he is not disposed to disturb them. He said he may poll them if a verdict is still not reached early next week.

Congressmen Wrangle Over Payola Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The ranking Republican on the House payola investigating subcommittee today accused subcommittee chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) of side-tracking public questioning of television disc jockey Dick Clark.

Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) also sharply challenged Harris' authority in throwing a secrecy curtain around subcommittee information about Clark's activities. Specifically, Bennett assailed as "false and misleading" a current memorandum cutting off other subcommittee members from files on Clark.

BENNETT REBUKED
Harris, in an obvious rebuke to Bennett, issued a memorandum last night ordering subcommittee chief counsel Robert W. Lishman to bar everyone except subcommittee staff investigators from the Clark files.

Bennett, contending the order violates House rules, said flatly he has no intention of observing it.

The Harris-Bennett clash marked the latest in a series of intermittent partisan flare-ups in the more than two-year-old stormy history of the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee.

FEUD INTO OPEN
Political bickering generally has been kept pretty much under cover. The current hassle shows promise of developing into an open running feud unless Harris and the subcommittee's Democratic majority announce plans to call Clark in the near future.

Harris, contending he has no intention of calling Clark until a subcommittee investigation is completed, has indicated the youthful Philadelphia disc jockey will be summoned late this month or early in April.

Storm Plays Havoc In Midwest, South

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The third lion-like March storm in 10 days dwindled into snow flurries today, leaving a wake of crushed roofs, clogged roads and mountainous drifts from the Mississippi to the Atlantic Coast.

Hardest hit were the Midwest, where snows mounted to record depths, and the Southland, when 18-foot drifts isolated thousands of persons in their mountain cabins.

Cold kept its grip through the East and threatened major emergencies in Dixie as fuel supplies ran dangerously low in the battered storm area from central Georgia, northern Alabama and Mississippi across Tennessee and Kentucky into the Carolinas and Virginia.

Yesterday was the coldest March 11 in history in a flock of eastern cities. New York City, Buffalo and Rochester, N.Y., Pittsburgh and Erie, Pa., Detroit and Lansing, Mich., all posted record lows.

The one-below-zero readings at Cleveland marked the fourth time in a week that the mercury there dipped to a new mark.

National guardsmen, civil defense and Red Cross rescue workers and college students joined forces in the stricken Southeast to bring food and fuel to mountaineers trapped behind four weeks of the heaviest snows in 25 years.

A mechanized army of tanks, trucks, arctic "weasels" and helicopters slogged through snows that measured 41 inches deep to bring relief to the families unable to cut timber to heat their tiny cabins.

At West Jefferson, N.C., a helicopter brought an expectant mother to safety, but many other residents refused to leave their homes although in need of medical care.

Rescue officials estimated 2,000 persons were trapped by 18-foot drifts in the Blue Ridge Mountains near West Jefferson.

Thirteen college students fought two miles through hip-deep snow to help a woman who broke her hip while seeking aid for her husband who had suffered a stroke.

Rescue crew drove a chain-equipped jeep down a railroad track to find Mrs. Rennie Widener burning her own clothing to keep warm.

Mrs. Donna Davis, a widow, lay in her mountain home for two weeks without medical care after she was badly burned in a stove fire. Her five children stayed alive through the ordeal by eating nothing but cornmeal.

A severe fuel shortage loomed in the towns of southwestern Virginia, western North Carolina and east Tennessee after the snows shut down the area's coal mines. Entire towns were reported rationing coal and fuel oil.

Sixty National Guard trucks, jeeps and ambulances set out in the midst of Atlanta's worst snowfall in 20 years to bring aid to the stranded townspeople of Gainesville, Cumming, Cleveland and Dahlona, Ga.

Four more inches of snow erased the two-day-old March record at Cairo, Ill. Officials said the latest snowfall brought the month's total to 19.3 inches, nearly double the record which had stood since 1892 until storm swept the southern Illinois area earlier this week.

Five inches of fresh snow collapsed a store roof at Burlington, Iowa, a hospital patio roof at Centralia, Ill., and an overhang of the varied industries building at the Iowa State Fairgrounds in Des Moines.

No one was caught beneath the roofs when they fell in, but officials estimated damage in the thousands of dollars.

Mine Rescue Work Suffers Setback As Ventilator Fails

LOGAN, W. Va. (UPI) — Rescue crews, working feverishly to reach 18 miners entombed since Tuesday, suffered an agonizing setback today when a new ventilating system failed to clear passageways of deadly fumes.

Officials of Island Creek Coal Co. and Crawford L. Wilson, state mines chief who is directing the rescue operation, said it would be 10 to 24 hours more before additional underground construction work is completed.

"We have met with some disappointment in our plan of reversing the air flow over the fire area," Wilson told a pre-dawn press conference. "But we are continuing with plans to reach the area where the miners are presumed to be located."

Smoke and gases, along with intense heat from the smoldering coal fire, have thwarted rescuers for four days. The fate of the men is not known, but mine officials believe they had time to barricade themselves off half a mile from the fire.

Four passageways, covering an area of about 200 feet, were blocked off in an operation which got under way yesterday morning. Four galvanized steel pipes were installed, two Dickson of San Quentin Prison will give an informal talk on capital punishment in the educational building of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo at 8 p.m. on April 1, it was announced today. RECOGNIZE THIS PLACE? Very few of our readers will. But if you do, you can rightfully claim to be an old-time Marinite. It's a picture of the Bolinas General Store operated in the early 1900s by Bonaiti and Petar. Ranchers came from miles around to get their supplies at the store. And it was a popular gathering place where the men of the area discussed current politics and other news brought to them by the San Rafael Journal via stage from San Rafael. This photo will appear along with other historic Marin pictures in a souvenir book on early Marin being compiled by the Marin County Savings and Loan Assn. to commemorate that pioneer firm's upcoming move to its new quarters at 990 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. Your Marin Magazine will give you a preview peek at some of these rare old photos next week.

Poetry And Penmanship; A Verse For Those Who Write The Worse

IT'S A GOOD THING my name isn't Jefferson Schmelzenhurst or something. Otherwise the party who addressed this envelope to me would never have made it.

He started writing in the lower right hand corner and the letters got piled up all in a heap at the edge like alphabet soup. It might have been better if he had turned the envelope over and continued on the other side.

It's a mystery to me how mail clerks can decipher some of the hieroglyphics traveling under the pseudonym of penmanship. The poor guy at the end of the line with the leather bag on his shoulder has the worst deal of all, but maybe he likes decoding secret messages in the pouring rain. Chirography is becoming a lost art.

Take my son, for instance.

HE'S HAD A good education and must be very smart. How else can you explain his ability to write everything in Arabic without even taking a lesson?

Moreover, instead of writing the address in the southeast quarter of the envelope he puts it up where the postage stamp should be. I would not mind except that he leaves it up to me what to do with the stamp.

Once I made a mistake and turned the envelope upside down. The address looked just as intelligible this way so I stuck the stamp in the northeast corner and left the rest up to the postoffice.

It came back from Athens two months later marked "No such party at this address." No wonder. It was supposed to have gone to Munich. That was one time the Greeks did not have a word for it.

WE USED TO light into him for not being more painstaking but he pointed out that great men are notorious scribblers.

"Ever look at the signatures on the Declaration of Independence?" he countered.

Still, it's going to be downright embarrassing to call in a handwriting expert once he starts writing us letters away from home. We won't know if he's sick, going to be married or drafted. I guess the best thing to do in a case like this is to send him a check which he probably wanted anyway.

In all fairness, he's not the only one who violates all the rules of pen-craft. I used to have a roommate who was such a horrible scribbler he was ashamed to write his girl a letter, and spent all his money on long distance phone calls and telegrams.

I SUGGESTED he use a typewriter but he said his girl thought it was too impersonal. Finally I agreed to do it for him and explained that Ed had a wrench in his arm, making it difficult to write. I lost the job when he discovered that I had left the r out of wrench.

My father was a splendid penman of the old spencerian school. I tried hard to imitate him but could never match his beautiful script.

"Practice," he advised, and gave me this little poem to copy as an exercise. He said he learned it in school. That I doubt, but it includes every letter of the alphabet and it did help:

Make sure you mind your p's and q's,

Your a's and e's and i-o-u's. Cross through your x and dot your j,

Don't make an h look like a k.

A crooked y is not a z, And never form an f like b. It's always sloppy writing when

You can't tell v from r from n.

Most c's and d's and g's and s's

And m's and w's are messes. But worst of all, and mark this well,

An uncrossed t can look like L

MARIN PROFILE:

The Man Behind
The Sports Show

By DOROTHY SLATTERY

"A wonderful character with more vim and vitality than 99 other men I know."

That's the way an old friend and neighbor describes Bernard (Barney) De Bisschop, the dark-haired, 44-year-old human dynamo who originated the Marin Rod and Gun Club sponsored sports show six years ago—and who has, since then, devoted every spare minute of his time toward contributing to the growing success of that colorful event.

Barney is a man with a knack for cramming 48 hours of living into the 24-hour-a-day span.

He is full-time partner in the San Francisco firm of Free-Minetti Sporting Goods Co., devoted father of four sons and two daughters, dedicated fighter for the conservation of wild life, Northern California Pop Warner Football commissioner, past president of the Marin Rod and Gun Club, former basketball coach, and firm believer that "it's not the man, but the team that counts."

At his modest, two story home at 26 Scenic avenue, San Anselmo, this bundle of perpetual energy, dressed in a white polo shirt and dark slacks, called his wife, Dorothy, (he calls her "Doll") into the living room to help tell the story of his life.

HE TALKS rapidly even with a pipe balanced in his mouth. He uses his hands suddenly to demonstrate a point and his eyes light up as a long forgotten scene flashes into his memory.

Barney has been an organizer and doer since his school days at San Francisco's Lowell High School. Besides playing varsity basketball for four years, becoming all-city in his junior year in 1934, he played varsity football, was a member of the rugby team, the Scroll and L honor society, and was elected president of his low senior class. He missed becoming student body president by three votes in 1935.

Love of sports has been the axis around which his fast-paced life has revolved. He believes that "athletics are 100 per cent character builders for boys . . . a good, well rounded athlete with the proper attitude in team sports will end up a fine gentleman in the long run."

After graduating from Lowell in 1935, Barney enrolled at San Francisco State Teacher's College bent on becoming a coach. But a chance meeting in a lower division classroom changed all that.

Dorothy Lordeaux, a student from Sonoma County, planning on becoming an industrial chemist, arrived late for a sociology class and Barney arrived even later. They sat in a back row, began to chat, and less than a year later were married.

Barney quit college after his sophomore year and went to work as a salesman for the Roos Brothers department store in San Francisco.

BUT BARNEY'S great love for basketball had not diminished so, in his off-hours, he began to play for the John Borlo Athletic Club playing on three Pacific Athletic Assn. championship teams.

In the early 1940s he became basketball commissioner of the Pacific Coast Amateur Athletic Union and again displayed a gift for organization when he ran what he recalls as "the biggest basketball tournament ever held in the country." One hundred eighteen Northern California teams played off in the tournament from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. using courts at Kezar Pavilion and the National Guard Armory at 15th and Valencia streets.

A growing family and a promotion to department manager in men's clothing made Barney give up the basketball commissionership after 1945. His four sons, Bill born in 1938, Dick, in 1939, Donald, in 1941 and John, in 1942 began to demand more of his time and, also, Barney had found a new outside interest.

A salmon fishing trip to Pedro Point in 1942 was a turning point in the life of Barney DeBisschop. From that time on he has been an enthusiastic endorser of conservation becoming a member of the San Francisco Tyee Club. In 1946 Barney was elected the 11th president of the club and he has worked ever since to preserve the wild life in the state of California. He played an active role in instigating action for the eliminating of the nets across the San Francisco Bay that were reducing the schools of striped bass.

IT WAS BARNEY'S great dedication to the conservation of wild life that eventually led him to join the Marin Rod and Gun Club in 1951.

In 1949, after a final fling with basketball when he coached the St. Mary's Chinese Mission team to the National Oriental championship, Barney resigned as sporting goods buyer from Roos Brothers and went into the sporting goods business with two fellow basketball court luminaries, Art Free and Carl Minetti.

In June of that year the DeBisschops sold their San Francisco Sunset district home and moved their family of five children to San Anselmo. The family needed larger quarters and Dorothy and Barney felt "Marin was a good place to raise children." A daughter, Linda, had been born in 1948 and, two months after the family settled in their new house, a second daughter, Elaine, arrived.

Barney heard through a friend and neighbor, John P. O'Connell of the Marin Rod and Gun Club's conservation work and becoming interested, he was put up for membership by O'Connell in 1951.

After moving to Marin, Barney began to take an active part in Boy Scout functions, also encouraging his sons to take an active part in their school sports programs.

Barney's own love affair with basketball got started when he was an 11-year-old youngster living in San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury District. His parents, Adelmus and Natalie DeBisschop, had come to the United States from Belgium and settled in San Francisco after visiting the 1915 exposition and fair. Barney was born the following year.

ADELMUS operated the American-French bakery in the Mission District until 1923 when ill health forced him to give up his business. He died two years later when Barney was 9.

Natalie DeBisschop, described by her son as a "peppy, energetic woman," maintained her home after her husband's death and Barney continued attending the Dudley Stone Grammar School. The Hamilton gymnasium on the corner of Waller and Belvedere streets was "only a block away" from Barney's house and he used to "go up and watch" basketball players working out and eventually "drifted into playing the game."

Today, two of Barney's boys are carrying on their father's love of basketball. Dick, 21, a sophomore at Oregon State College, played for Drake High School before his graduation in 1958, and John, 18, a junior at Drake, plays independent ball in the county.

Barney is described by long-time associates at the Marin Rod and Gun Club as a "hard-working guy, dedicated to conservation who doesn't pay too much attention to protocol . . . stepping on toes all the way . . . but right in 99 cases out of 100 . . ."

His personality is said to be "intense, tempestuous and boisterous . . . He has the gift of being heard two blocks away when he has something to say . . ."

This is the man who came up with the idea for the first sports show in 1954 and who had the energy and drive to go from door to door arranging for exhibitors to enter the show. They did and the first show held at Boy Scout Hall in San Rafael as a one-night stand was a "jam-packed success." The following year it was moved to the Bermuda Palms where it has been held every succeeding year, and will go on again this year March 18-20.

BARNEY begins "working on" exhibitors for the show early in October and one of his biggest headaches is the "constant hammering" needed to get them lined up. "Sometimes out of 250 letters sent out to manufacturers and dealers, only six or seven direct responses come back," mused Barney. "It's up to me to go out and see why."

Arranging of the show takes from five to six months of his spare time. On top of this he has been the Pop Warner commissioner from Northern California for the past six years. He became interested in Warner football when his own sons were playing the league.

If his schedule weren't already large enough for two men, Barney for the past few years has been working the swing shift as a bottler in a San Francisco brewery to augment his income the months of the year he is not rounding up exhibitors for the sports show.

Sitting in his easy chair, recalling the hurley burley activity of the past 25 years, Barney puffed slowly on his pipe and said, "I guess I've been all over everywhere all the time . . . always on the go . . . lucky I've got lots of energy."

When Barney can squeeze in a moment of relaxation, he enjoys working in his garden. His wife says he is "an easy man to feed."

And Barney patting his stomach said, "Too easy . . . when I was married I weighed 135 pounds . . . Last week I tipped the scales at 200."

FOR THE DIVERS

It's A Fascinating World That Lies Beneath The Water

By DON KEOWN

Burnell Hendrickson of San Anselmo is a man who likes to get to the bottom of things. And once he gets there, he likes to stay awhile.

Always man has been lured into adventure and into experimentation by the driving desire to rip the cloak of secrecy from the unknown. The explorer crossed — and still crosses — seas and mountains to find out what lies on the other side. The scientist probed — and continues to probe — vast pools of yet undeveloped knowledge in an effort to determine what lurks below the thin surface that is man's present-day know-how.

Hendrickson belongs to a group — a fast-growing group — that has turned its energies and curiosity towards the discovery of what lies hidden below the waters of our oceans and our streams.

You see them, the divers, some lightly equipped and clad, others with bulky devices and gear, engaging in what has become both a sport and a mission. Down into the water they go, recording, with their eyes and minds, or with cameras, the life that exists below the surface and which differs so greatly from that above the water.

HENDRICKSON first caught the diving "fever" back in 1946 when as a U.S. Marine he was stationed on Guam.

He remembers that initial exposure well.

"I was watching some Naval demolition divers at work off shore," he recalls, "and what they were doing fascinated me. I wondered just what it was like to go below the water. And what things looked like down there. So I got hold of one of their diving masks. And that was how my diving began."

Hendrickson was born in Minnesota and resided in San Francisco prior to entering service. Upon his return from duty in the Pacific, he came to Marin, his folks having moved to this county. And two years ago he married a Marin girl, the former Linda Riker of San Rafael. They have a 5-month-old son, Hans Eirick.

Hendrickson works for the Sohner Tree Service.

And since his return to the States his interest in diving has increased instead of faltering.

HE JOINED the Marin Skin Divers.

And on weekends he frequently loads up his car and heads for a coastal point or a stream to engage in what has become his favorite hobby. Four times he has descended to depths of 300 feet.

But two things bothered him: The bulk of his equipment. And, even with the aid of such devices, the short duration of his stays underwater.

At 300 feet a tank of oxygen lasts a diver but seven minutes. Much of this valuable time is consumed in the descent and ascent.

At 100 feet a cylinder will permit the diver to stay below the water about 25 minutes.

This time limit, needless to say, cramps the style of the diver, be his purpose a commercial one or simply sport.

And for a full day's diving the sportsman such as Hendrickson finds he must load his vehicle until it bulges with tanks of oxygen — each unit weighing approximately 40 pounds — if he is to get anything like maximum benefit from his trip. The result is a considerable job in loading, transporting, and then unloading.

Hendrickson has tired of wrestling bulky tanks — but not of the sport of diving. And he is determined to do something about it.

Hendrickson admits that his past associations with things mechanical have been few and far between.

"I ONCE DID tinker a bit with the carburetor of my car and fixed it so that I got 40 per cent better mileage," he says. "But that's about the extent of my mechanics."

Nevertheless, Hendrickson converted a section of his garage at his home at 292 Butterfield road into a workshop. And he set about seeking a solution to the problem of how to stay under water longer with less equipment. And — no unimportant factor — with safety.

What he believes is the solution to his quest is now being put through a series of rigorous tests.

He describes it as "a semi-closed circuit underwater diving apparatus."

It is the result of a full year's work. And, Hendrickson says, it increases the underwater stay of a diver using any standard aqualung cylinder by three or four times.

Thus the diver who usually stays beneath the surface at a 100-foot depth only about 25 minutes can, with the aid of Hendrickson's device, extend his underwater explorations to an hour and 15 minutes or possibly even longer than an hour and a half.

The theory is simple. The diver simply re-breathes two-thirds of his own exhaled air. Only one-third is exhausted into the water.

Hendrickson makes no claim that his basic idea is a new one. In fact, he stresses that it is one that has been used frequently in the past.

WHAT IS NEW is the increased safety factor in Hendrickson's device. This safety has two bases: (1) Hendrickson's apparatus works on a "demand principle" instead of the previously-used jet flow system; and (2) the end product of the series of careful tests now underway on the Marin man's "brainchild" will be a series of careful and

SETTING THE INSTRUMENTS of the decompression chamber at his Coastal School of Diving at Oakland is Al Mikalow. He is getting ready for a test of the semi-closed circuit underwater diving apparatus developed by Burnell Hendrickson of San Anselmo.

THE TEST OVER, Mikalow checks Hendrickson who is acting as the "guinea pig" for the checking of his own device. Further tests are scheduled at greater simulated depths in the decompression chamber. But indications are that the apparatus will permit divers to remain under water from three to four times the duration of their present stays.

scientific calculations on the safe use of the new device.

Hendrickson regards the use of any such device without such calculations to be extremely dangerous.

This, he explains, is because air which is breathed and re-breathed is no longer the same combination of elements. The nitrogen percentage rises, the oxygen content drops. And calculations based on normal diving "air" become no longer applicable.

Hendrickson says his gear has the approval of Capt. Albert R. Behnke, Jr., retired Naval officer and recognized as the world's foremost authority on diving.

It was Behnke who referred Hendrickson to Al Mikalow and the experimental section of his Coastal School of Diving at Oakland. So impressed was Mikalow that the facilities of his decompression chamber were made available for tests at simulated sea depths.

To date tests — and the vital calculations — have been completed for depths of 33 and 100 feet. Tests for greater depths are planned. So is a test utilizing helium instead of oxygen in the air tank.

SO FAR THE tests have been most successful, Hendrickson says.

He says his device will have far-reaching significance for commercial enterprises as well as for sports divers.

One industrial application that he forecasts: Its use by divers seeking gold along the bottoms of the Feather and Eel Rivers.

Hendrickson also sees his device as a tremendous bonanza to salvage divers.

But even as his first such venture into mechanics is undergoing the series of tests, Hendrickson already has a more advanced project at the on-paper stage. This time he is aiming at a safe completely-closed circuit operation that he believes will enable the diver to go as deep as 600 feet — "or possibly even 1,000."

Carrying a helium supply on his back, the diver would be completely independent of any surface operations.

And, Hendrickson believes, the diver could stay at a depth of 300 feet for as long as four hours.

This device, the Marinite points out, could be of great value to the U. S. Navy as well as commercial enterprises. And the Navy has already shown an interest in it, he adds.

But the semi-closed circuit apparatus with the vital oxygen-nitrogen calculations will come first. Completion of the tests at the Coastal School of Diving is still some months away.

WHEN THOSE tests are finished, Hendrickson is convinced, he will have some safe and proven equipment which he and other divers can use to prolong their stays in the ocean's depths.

Then they can extend their explorations of a strange underwater world which they insist is just as fascinating as the moon, Mars, and other distant planets upon which other men are now taking aim. And Hendrickson's apparatus is going to cost a good deal less than the space-probing rocket ships.

A 'Regular Guy,' Still He's A Very Special Member Of His Class

By DOROTHY BLACKMAN

A bright-eyed boy in a wheelchair rolls along a covered walk that joins Marindale and Santa Margarita Schools.

At the door of a fourth grade classroom in Santa Margarita School, Mrs. Marjorie S. Beyer and some of her pupils greet him. Their welcome is a warm one—for the handicapped youngster is a popular "part-time" member of the class.

He and Mrs. Beyer and the fourth grade pupils are part of a cooperative venture between Marindale, the county's school for the handicapped, and Santa Margarita, a kindergarten-through-sixth grade school in Dixie District. The two schools are neighbors in Terra Linda.

AN INTEGRATION program—permitting some handicapped children from Marindale to attend regular classes for part of the day at Santa Margarita—began last year. The building of a school for the handicapped next to a regular school was deliberate; it is among the newest trends in education.

Why "integrate" the handicapped?

There are several reasons. Some children will be preparing for later full-time attendance in a regular class situation in their own neighborhood. Educators feel some will profit from being with other children in their own age group and grade. Others may profit from the specific skills the regular class is learning.

The benefits work both ways, says the teachers involved.

In Mrs. Beyer's class the presence of a handicapped child is very good for the other pupils, she says. If the boys who are inclined to be rough want to wheel him, they have to stop and think about his limitations. Young Richard Hexter contributes a great deal in the way of toys and games, and is "always sharing something with us," Mrs. Beyer reports.

The class enjoys waiting on him. And for Richard, who is very well adjusted socially, the greatest value is his contact with other children, the teacher says.

BEFORE HE CAME to the class, the pupils talked about how to make him happy, and they realized the need to treat him as normally as anyone else, within his physical limitations, of course, Mrs. Beyer notes.

In Mrs. Josephine Leary's third grade class, a 9-year-old girl who is hard of hearing and has a speech impediment has been a part-time member since September. "It has been a marvelous experience for her and for us," says Mrs. Leary. "We have learned to be overzealous in not hurting people's feelings. And she has given us things we never could find in a book.

"WHEN SHE IS with us, the class is calmer, quieter and more receptive," the teacher says.

An admission committee, composed of the Marindale staff, county schools psychologist and others concerned, decides when a handicapped child may benefit from attendance at a regular school. The parents are consulted first, of course.

Then the Santa Margarita staff discussed the child and tries to find the best place possible for him.

The handicapped child may attend classes at the regular school anywhere from two hours a week to three hours a day, depending on his needs.

Last year four Marindale pupils went full-time to Santa Margarita, coming to Marindale only for their therapy. Three of them now attend their neighborhood schools.

This year four pupils have been attending Santa Margarita classes part-time. Others may join them as it becomes advisable.

MARINDALE has 20 orthopedically handicapped pupils and 12 with hearing handicaps. The staff, which includes a physical therapist and occupational therapist, recently prepared a booklet of advice to help Santa Margarita teachers who will have handicapped children in their classes part-time.

Marindale Vice Principal John Arena points out that the staff of Santa Margarita has been very receptive to the integration program, despite some crowded classrooms.

The fact that the program is an individually-tailored one is an important ingredient in making it successful, Arena notes. For some pupils it makes the transition to regular school an easier one, and for others, who may never go to regular classes, the experience and the competition is something they should have.

The booklet of advice points out that intelligence-wise, handicapped children fall generally in the same ranges as the non-handicapped: They may be mentally retarded, normal or superior. Many may be educationally retarded, however, because of long absences from school caused by surgery or convalescence.

Some classes have assigned "buddies" to the handicapped child, assuring him companionship in the room and on the playground. The kids like to do things for the handicapped youngsters, a staff member observes. "They treat them as very special people," she adds.

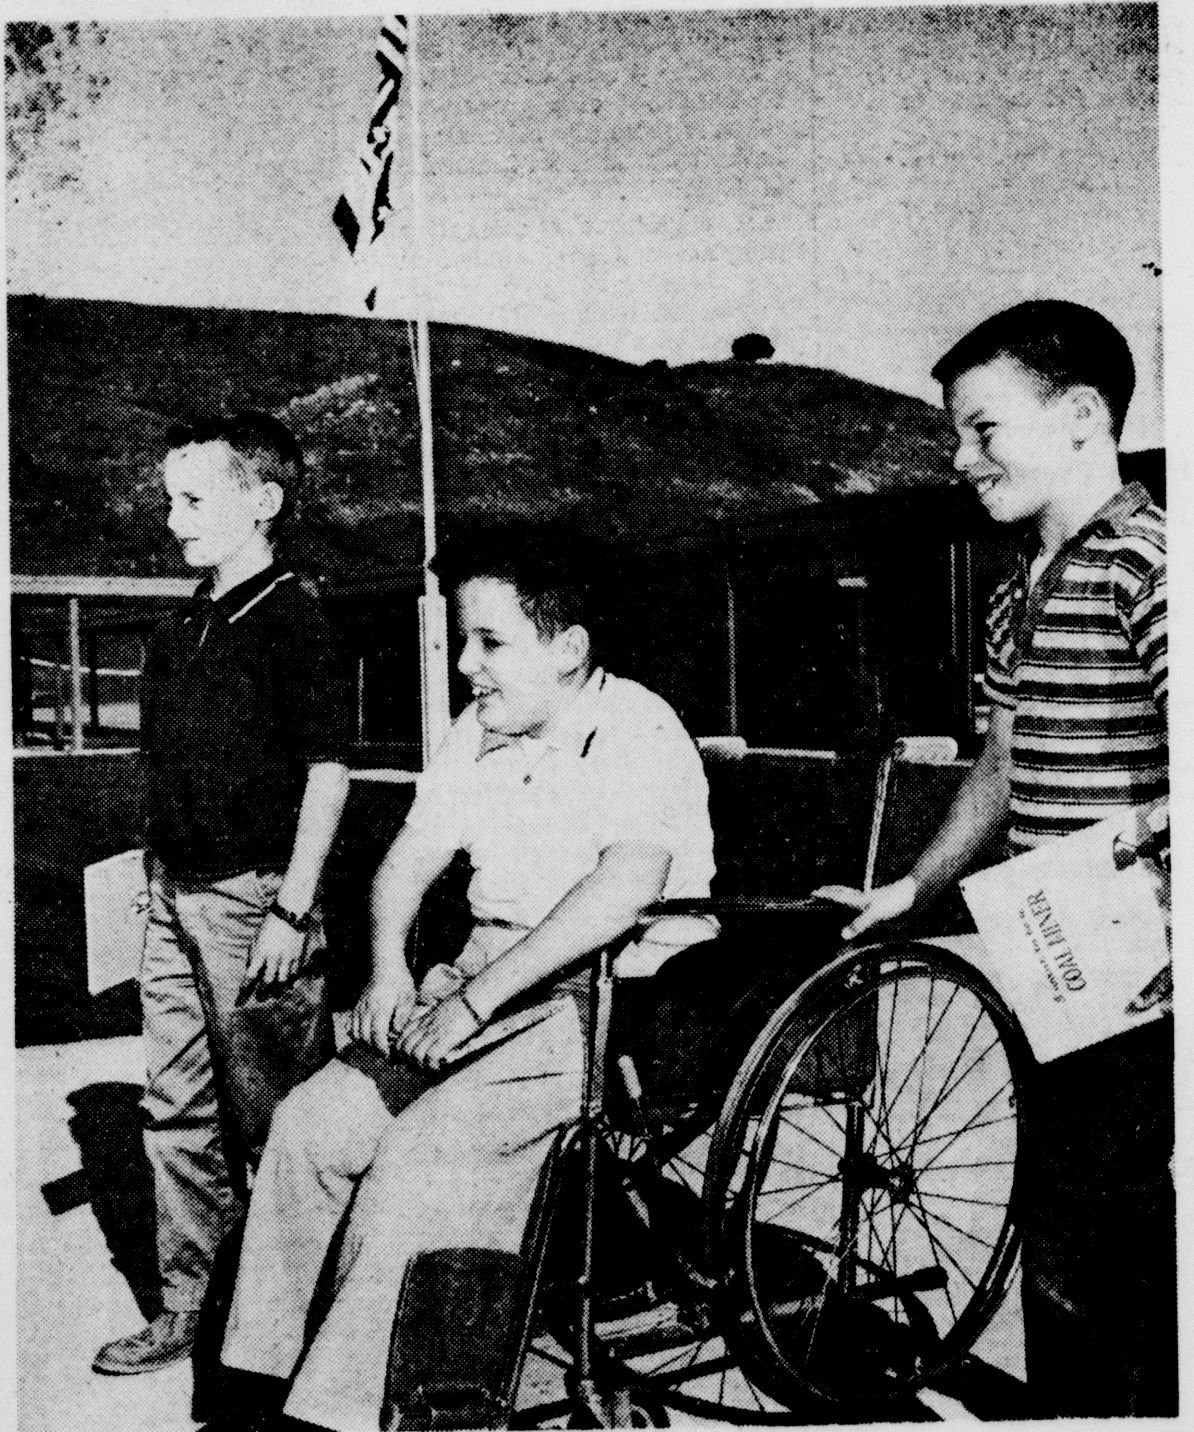

PERHAPS MOST important, as the booklet notes, a handicapped child is first of all—a child. He has the same needs as any other child, although sometimes these needs are greater in degree.

"The handicapped child feels less than we that he is different from others. He wants to be treated as others," the booklet concludes.

for handicapped children. But he is also a part-time and popular member of the fourth grade class at nearby Santa Margarita as part of an integration program which provides for some of the handicapped children to get part of their schooling in regular classes.

SCHOOLMATES AT Santa Margarita School make every effort to treat Richard like one of the fellows. But it is also apparent that they regard him as a pretty special friend as they vie for the privilege of pushing ing his wheelchair and aiding him in other ways. Here he is shown being assisted by two of his chums, Steve Shepherd, 9, left, and Jimmy Alvarado, 9, as he makes the short trip from the Marindale School to Santa Margarita.

Hamilton: The Chow Is Great

By A/1c TOMMY GRAYSON

Cleanliness, comfort and culinary craftsmanship are bywords of the Food Service Squadron of Hamilton Air Force Base.

Nearly 104 food service technicians (not including their administration and supply personnel) cater daily to an average of 4,000 diners.

This well organized unit, under the direction of CWO William O. Reid Jr., mess officer, and Max W. English, first sergeant, has under its jurisdiction four full-time dining halls, one alert kitchen which feeds flight line personnel, one in-flight kitchen, and a central meat cutting plant and pastry shop in its wide scope of operation. Also included are five standby facilities used to feed Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, ROTC, Air Force Academy, and Civil Air Patrol cadets on temporary duty at the big Marin base.

"TAKE WHAT you want, but eat what you take," is the theme for minimum food waste here. Airmen are allowed 4,000 calories a day, with salad bars and other modern foods to help the weight conscious airman watch his waistline.

Careful planning by top Air Force dietitians have made daily menus at the North Marin base attractive as well as appetizing. As a result of proper food preparation and attractive presentation of the foodstuffs, old, worn-out jokes relative to service meals have vanished from the scene at Hamilton.

A consistent conservation program is also included in the food service program. Proper utilization of personnel with minimum loss of manpower hours has been a keynote. Economy also plays a major role.

With the recent renovation program within the Air Defense Command, the food service section is constantly striving to bring Air Force personnel the finest food in civilian-like surroundings. This has been accomplished through the effort of efficient supervision, able direction and capable food service personnel. Recent information released by food service officials disclosed that out of the 105,000 meals prepared here per month, the base's horde of airmen gobble up 35,000 pounds of meat and 41,250 gallons of milk.

RIGID FOOD standards are maintained here as top staff officers and NCOs daily patronize Hamilton's mess facilities and fill out daily reports as to the quality of the food, preparation, variety and atmosphere.

Chow hounds who munched their way through mountains of "K" and "C" rations in World War II and Korea would be understandably shook when confronted with the latest developments in Air Force feeding.

The chow hound is now an epicure; his chow is gone, replaced by cuisine. Bon appetit!

THE SERVICE CHOW HOUND likes his meat. And at Hamilton Air Force Base, he gets it. Here a mess attendant shows some of the top-grade turkeys scheduled for the base's dining halls after the proper preparation.

meat slicer in preparing some roast beef. Built-in refrigeration units and many other modern conveniences are also to be found in Hamilton's dining facilities.

HOW DO YOU LIKE your roast? Rare? Medium? Or well done? Here A/1C Charles L. Overton, a food service specialist for Hamilton, cooks the meat to suit the men and women he must feed. Special attention is given airmen whose tastes in food vary. (Air Force Photos).

CIVILIAN-LIKE SURROUNDINGS add to the enjoyment of hungry airmen as they eat in a Hamilton Air Force Base dining hall at three-man dining tables. High-fidelity music is another added meal-time feature as the Air Force goes all-out to add to the eating enjoyment of its personnel. The atmosphere is pleasant, the food tasty. Times have changed in the military.

IT'S CAFETERIA STYLE serving, and the food reaches the diners piping hot. Here some hungry Hamiltonians eagerly await their well-earned meal. Food technicians at the base feed more than 4,000 diners daily. Careful planning permits the big feeding operation to move smoothly and rapidly.

MRS. FOSSEY demonstrates the first step in rug braiding as she charts a design for a rug. This is one of the most interesting aspects of the craft. Here the do-it-yourself can put her creative talent to work. Watching Mrs. Fossey is one of her students, Mrs. Blich. All photos are by Bob Prather.

HERE IS HOW

Braid Your Rugs; It's Fun And Thrifty

Bringing back a braided rug from a do-it-yourself session remains one of the proudest achievements of the American homemaker.

Do-it-yourself fads come and go, but rug braiding mostly stays.

Mrs. Gladys Fossey of Kentfield, who teaches a rug braiding class at Sir Francis Drake High School for the Tamalpais School District Adult Evening School, thinks the obvious practicality for the end product and the ease with which almost anyone may get involved accounts for the popularity and stability of the craft.

"And of course," she adds, "if your furnishings are Early American, a braided rug is a must. Braiding one's own rug is a practical and economic way of having a beautiful rug for a lifetime of service — and it's fun."

RUGS CAN be charted by color and design, she explained. Or, if preferred, the "hit and miss plan" may be used, an easier method which results in an equally attractive product.

"In planning a braided rug," Mrs. Fossey continued, "one should have an adequate supply of materials. The best materials for long and attractive wear are the woolens."

For her Drake class, Mrs. Fossey keeps on hand a supply of such materials which are sold to students at cost. The used woolen materials are old coats, blankets, trousers, and the like. They may also be obtained in salvage shops in Marin County, San Francisco and Oakland.

The only specification for the raw material, she warned, is uniformity of weight.

"First step is to wash, rip, strip and splice the used garment or blanket," she explained. "Tubing comes next. You select two pleasing colors and add a third strip to give a tweedy mixture."

Basically, there are three

ONCE THE STRIPS are braided, then they should be tightened. A vice and a special clamp are helpful in this process. But the job can be accomplished without these aids.

different techniques which may be used, Mrs. Fossey said. Her evening school classes use the simplest and quickest method as a beginning.

"FOR THEIR FIRST project, students usually do a smaller rug, maybe a two by four or a three by five. Generally these are modern in color and design but they still have a bit of the old world witchery which makes braided rugs so lastingly attractive and popular."

Once a small rug, always so handy for use in many parts of the home, is completed, the more ambitious projects may be undertaken. From here on out it's only a matter of gathering the material and putting in the time.

The Girl Scouts Have A Birthday

'Seven Service Days' Mark Anniversary
Of Organization Founded In 1912

For 3,057 Marin County girls a very busy week comes to an end today.

They're the Girl Scouts of the county. And today they complete their annual observance of Girl Scout Week.

The event opened last Sunday with Girl Scout Sunday, and with the girls attending, in troops and in uniform, worship services at their churches and synagogues.

Since then there has been a special theme of some kind for each day of the week.

Monday was homemaking day, and the girls concentratnamed in honor of the organization's founder. There they contributed a penny for each year of their age to the Juliette Low Fund, used as a world friendship project to send girls from different countries each year to a chalet in the Swiss Alps where they can mingle and become friends.

Yesterday —Friday—found the girls emphasizing arts and crafts. In the limelight was such creative work as pottery, painting, textile designing, bookbinding, woodworking, tile work, basketry, leathercraft, and even interior decorating.

Today the girls brought their week-long observance to a close with out-of-doors day.

In keeping with the meaning of the word Scout — a pathfinder, pioneer, or lover of open trails—the girls find magic and adventure in the open air as they hold picnics, cook-outs, hikes, camping, horseback rides, etc.

The Marin girls are fortunate in having many choice locations for such outdoor activities, the largest being the Marin County Girl Scout Camp at Sky Oaks in Fairfax. There, today, Marin intermediate and Senior Girl Scouts gathered for out-door fun and education. And there was much talk about the new Treasure Mountain Camp now under construction in the High Sierra adjoining Tahoe National Forest, and which will soon become available to them and thus broaden their outdoor opportunities.

GIRL SCOUTING can trace its history in the United States back to March 12, 1912 — hence the date for the annual observance. Then Juliette Gordon Low organized the first "Girl Guide" meeting, held in Savannah, Ga. In 1913 the name was changed to Girl Scouts.

Mrs. Low, an American, had made her home in England for many years. And there she met Sir Robert Baden-Powell, who interested her in Britain's newly-formed Girl Guides. Mrs. Low returned to the U.S., and brought back with her the idea and ideals of Girl Scouting.

The 3,057 Marin girls active in the vigorous program are happy that she did. So should be all Marin adults who are interested in seeing that our children receive every opportunity and encouragement to blossom into useful, wholesome citizens. The program demonstrated by the seven service days of Girl Scout Week is tailored toward turning out just such citizens.

To help other people at all

To obey the Girl Scout

ed upon the principles that make for good homemakers—knowledge that will stand them in good stead now, and will prove even more valuable in later years when they themselves become homemakers.

THE YOUNG Brownies, planning to "fly-up" to intermediate rank, were especially interested in their gatherings where they discussed table setting and decoration, and whipped up tasty dishes in the kitchens. It's all part of the requirements they had to meet before they could make that big step to intermediate Girl Scout status.

These same Brownies also took advantage of homemaking day to brush up on bed making, care of household pets, and similar around-the-home chores.

Tuesday was dedicated to good citizenship. The Scouts learned such lessons as the proper display of the United States Flag. Other fundamentals of Americanism were also emphasized at meetings held on that date.

Wednesday was health and safety day. Covered were proper safety and health habits, both in the home and out of doors.

The girls learned how home accidents are prevented by keeping a neat and orderly house, making certain that medicines are properly marked, seeing that furniture and rugs are in a safe condition, etc. Personal health including good grooming, care of skin, hair, and teeth, proper diet, also received attention. And so did first aid.

Intermediate Girl Scouts devoted their time to instructing the younger Brownies on safety rules—including proper bicycling.

THURSDAY was designated international friendship day. It's a program which goes on every day of the year in the Girl Scout movement. But this past Thursday it received special stress.

Troops had special displays of foreign dolls. Songs from across the seas were sung, and folk dances were danced in costumes from faraway lands.

Earlier many of the girls had attended Juliette Low World Friendship Parties,

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

By BERT BROWN, Marin Cleaners of San Rafael and Bel Air

"Why Did My Quilted Robe Stiffen In Cleaning?"

Dear Mrs. J.L.C., Jr.

Some of these attractive quilted robes, house or brunch coats, that are so comfortable and convenient, will dry clean beautifully. Unfortunately, some do not. At times, in the one like yours, the robe may stiffen and harden all over or in certain patches. The trouble lies in the bat of acetate fibers that is quilted between the outer fabric and a tobacco cloth or cheesecloth which you cannot see.

In some cases the batting will stiffen and become hard when dry cleaned and steamed. Whether it hardens or flattens in spots or all over, there are technical explanations for this. The one you will recognize most readily from your own experience is that acetate fibers are sensitive to heat. When the garment is cleaned, wear or cleaning wrinkles remain in the outer fabric. When an attempt is made to remove these unsightly wrinkles by steaming, the quilted acetate bats flatten and harden.

Because there are quilted garments on the market that dry clean perfectly and because the labels on the garments do not indicate whether or not a garment can be steamed, there is no way for you or your dry-cleaner to know how the batting will react to cleaning and finishing. Therefore, your dry cleaner is not responsible for quilted robes that stiffen. Perhaps the new Federal law in effect March of 1960, requiring fabrics to be labeled correctly by the manufacturer will inform you and the dry cleaner and save you from an unhappy experience with your quilted robes in the future.

SUNDAY: Girl Scouts of Marin and throughout the nation opened their Girl Scout Week with Girl Scout Sunday last Sunday. They attended their church or synagogue in troops, many in full uniform. Here Denise Garety of San Rafael Troop 40, in uniform and with Holy Bible in hand, is on her way to religious services. Girl Scout Week is now celebrated the week of March 12 annually, and traditionally starts on a religious note with Scout Sunday.

MONDAY: Monday, March 7, the second day of Girl Scout Week, was designated as Homemaking Day. Marin Girl Scouts, and their "sisters" throughout the country, concentrated upon the principles of learning to become good homemakers so as to play more useful roles in the lives of their families and to prepare themselves for their futures. Some members of Troop 295 of San Rafael picked up a little cooking know-how with the aid of a cookbook and some utensils and ingredients. Seated are Cyndy Monti, left, and Sue Tevis. Standing, left to right, are Vicky Woelz, Jenny Mitchell, Shirley Loureiro, Joyce Zuffinetti, Holly Ord, Laurie Pareto, Nancy Beck and Carolyn Lastreto.

A Very Busy Seven Days

TUESDAY: Good citizenship and patriotism are also a major interest of the Girl Scout program. During Girl Scout Week Tuesday is designated as Citizenship Day and the lessons of Americanism stressed. Saluting the Flag are Santa Venetia Troop 35 Brownies Kathy Page, Kiki Hinze, Laure Mandin, Valerie Weller, Valeria Valsecchi and Susan Lochelt. This picture and the other photos appearing on this page were taken by Dick Steinheimer, Independent-Journal staff photographer.

WEDNESDAY: Health and safety also have their day during Girl Scout Week. It fell on Wednesday. And two Brownies got some instruction from two older Girl Scout "sisters" on the basic principles of safe bicycling. The Girl Scouts are Christine Smith, left, and Sherill Perry, members of Intermediate Troop 173 of Corte Madera. The Brownies are Marilyn Kapper, left, and Peggy Johnson, members of Troop 194 of Larkspur.

THURSDAY: International friendship was the theme of Thursday's Girl Scout Week observance. Better understanding among all nations is a constant goal of the program. But on this one particular day, it was accorded increasing emphasis with the girls engaging in a variety of special activities. With globe and dolls attired in the costumes of a wide variety of nationalities are San Rafael Troop 220 members, left to right, Roberta Krohn, Catherine Lowman, Carol Ann Cook, Julia Friar, and Martha Puente.

FRIDAY: Arts and crafts were emphasized on Friday by the busy Girl Scouts. They are a source of both fun and achievement for the girls. Showing here some of their widely diversified projects in

SATURDAY: The week-long annual Girl Scout observance ended today with out-of-doors day. Fun in the open air and close to nature is an important part of the Girl Scout program. Enjoying such an outing in Marin, an ideal place to live for the young boy or girl who loves the outdoors, are four Senior Scouts from San Anselmo. Left to right they are Grethe Wik, Karen Schmidt, Karen O'Rourke and Ginny Carter. Today brought the end of the annual observance and a busy week for the girls. But it was also a lot of fun. And it afforded them a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate to the people of Marin just what the Girl Scout program means to and does for our young girls.

Don't Let Plants Hide Wall

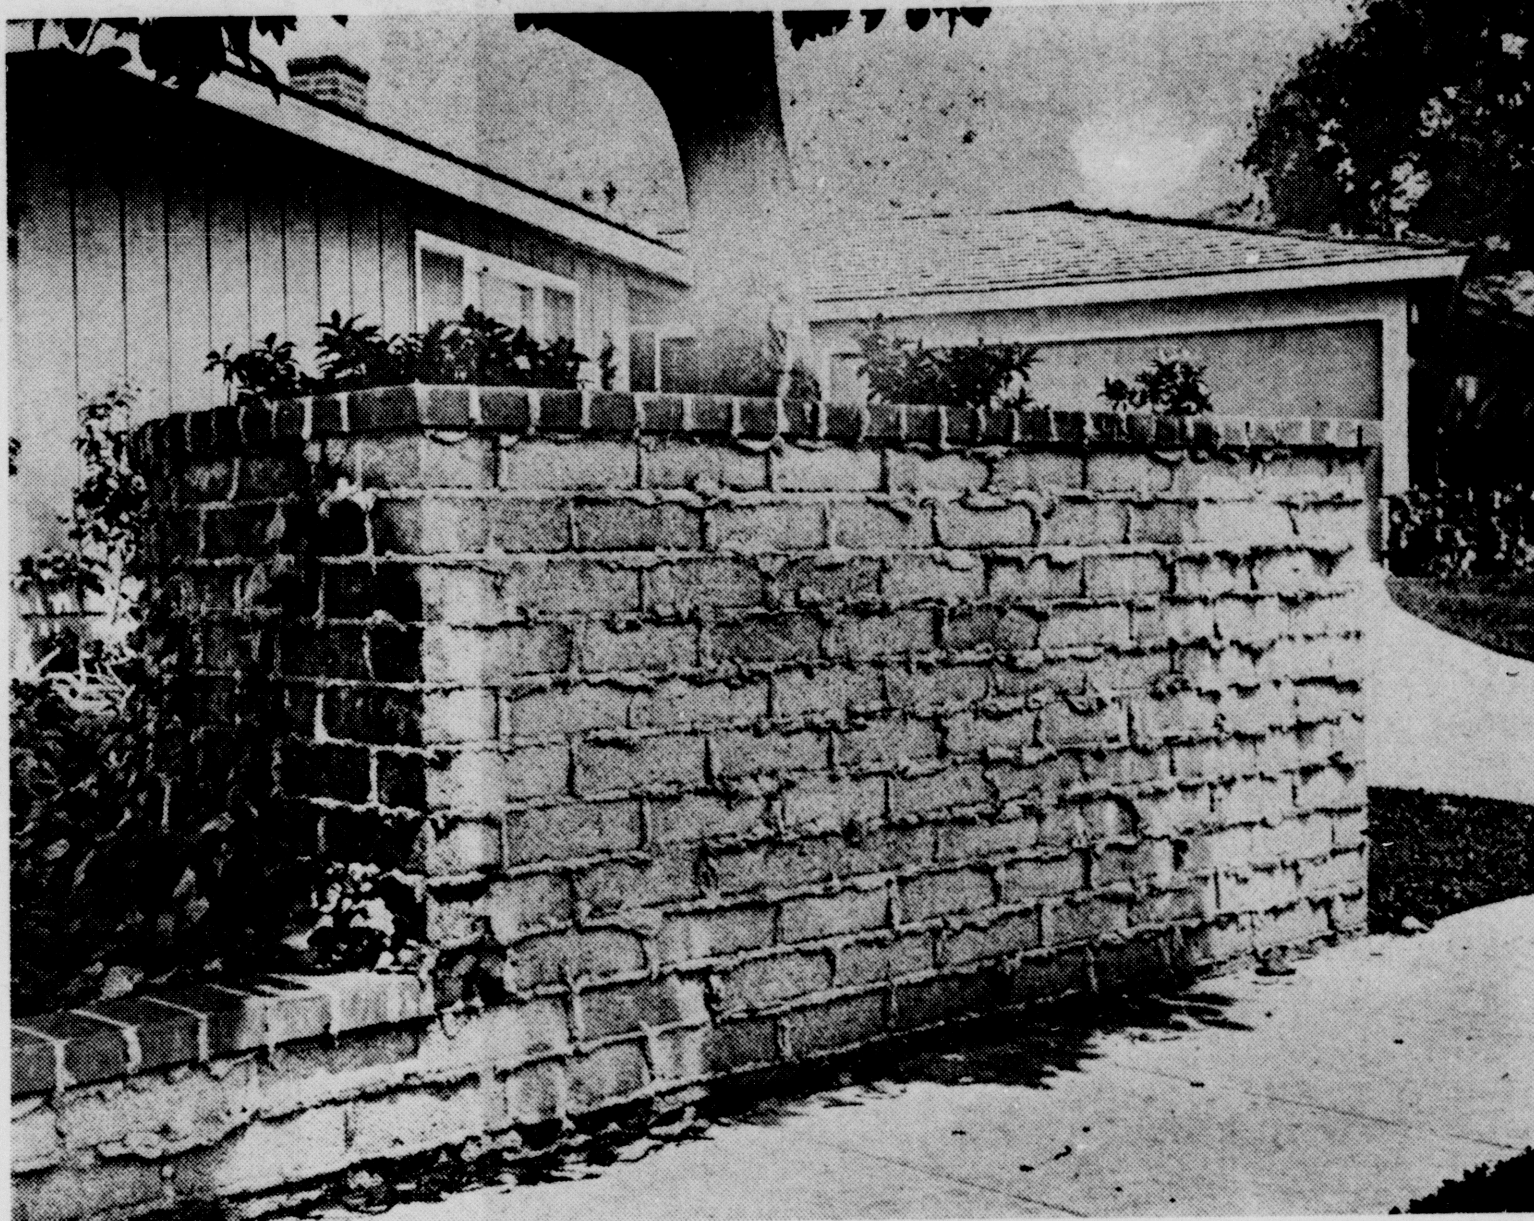

When planting a garden wall — be it the wall of a house, a retaining wall or the board fence that marks your boundary line — you have an ideal chance to create something special.

Correctly planted, a wall becomes a backdrop to the garden drama as it unfolds through the seasons.

Some gardeners seem to think the best wall planting is one that hides the wall. Their chance to use the wall as a backdrop for planting effect is thus automatically forfeited.

We believe that a wall is something to see. Against it, plants create patterns of interest, bloom stands out and visual enjoyment is enhanced.

The espaliered plant seemed to find greatest favor in wall plantings because it offered so many variations.

WEeping OR EXTENDED MORTAR JOINTS in a concrete masonry wall result in an eye-catching surface that fits in perfectly with a rustic garden. The rough surface provides a good background for ivy and other climbing plants.

This garden wall is constructed of four-by-four-by-16-inch concrete masonry units laid up in a running bond pattern. The mortar that oozes out around the units is not struck off, but instead, left to harden.

Are you enjoying the world of high fidelity sound available from FM radio? FM radio broadcasting is a system of broadcasting that enables the entire tonal range of music to be transmitted to the listener; whereas, AM radio (the ordinary receiver which we have had for many years) transmits a limited portion of the tonal range. Also, FM radio reception is free from annoying static, and most important, FM radio is dedicated to the transmission of high quality programs without numerous tiring commercials and a barrage of rock-and-roll.

The new Sargent Rayment SR-1020 FM tuner would be an excellent addition to your music system. It brings you the ultimate in FM performance. The SR-1020 was designed to fulfill not only today's requirements for flawless reproduction of monophonic FM programming, but also to meet the exacting needs of tomorrow's broad-band multiplex transmission for stereo. The FM tuner comes complete in an attractively styled metal cabinet for only $97.50. Plug it into your existing radio or into your component Hi-Fi system and enter the wonderfully relaxing world of good music. See and hear them in our sound room.

For listening fun, tune-in our FM radio program on Saturday afternoons from 3 to 4:30 . . . KPEN, 101.3 on the dial.

IF NOT A FENCE OR WALL

Then Why Not Try A Hedge? But Choose The Plant Carefully

Are you planning to build a fence or wall one of these days?

If so, you might give a little thought to substituting a hedge.

It's true that a living fence requires some upkeep over the years. But the initial cost and effort is so much less and the future result is so pleasant that you may agree that you can well afford those extra hours of care which a hedge will require.

Two factors—the individual situation, and personal preference—should rule in making the decision between a hedge, and a fence or wall. In some instances the physical environment almost demands one and excludes the other. Only a careful study of your yard will show you whether the fence or the hedge is the choice which will best fit your practical needs.

And it's the home owners privilege to also exercise his right of expressing his personal preference. If you prefer the greenness of a "living fence," then go to it. If you like a neat fence or wall (such as the one shown above) better, then more power to you.

But the rest of this article is for the home owner who finds that the hedge is most appealing to his eyes or best meets needs.

Your nurseryman will tell you that much thought and care should go into choosing plant material for a hedge. Look around your neighborhood for examples that please you. Then talk it over with a nurseryman to find just how wide your choice is.

Privet is beyond doubt the most widely used of hedge materials for the very good reason that it is so satisfactory. Different varieties available make it possible to use privet for hedges from two to 10 feet tall. Trim it to your liking for formal effects or leave it untrimmed for an informal effect seldom attributed to the species.

We like the old favorite Eugenia, or Brush Cherry. Its tenderness to frost makes it a doubtful choice in gardens outside the coastal influence, but it is fine for Marin. Another old favorite is Glossy Abelia. Eugenia is tall and columnar even when left untrimmed, though shearing enhances its formality. Abelia is more graceful as an informal hedge, but stands shearing in summer if you prefer the clipped look. Tubular white or pink flowers are Abelia's best known asset.

For tall and mildly formal hedges, English Laurel, Viburnum, Euonymus, and Tarata Pittosporum, are recommended. Any of the above will make a full, wide screen when left untrimmed.

Dividers Help Make Tiny Cottages Bigger

Even the tiniest of cottages can be spacious.

Doubling the size of a small home is quite a challenge for an architect, but top-flight designers are meeting it — and are turning out some perfectly delightful abodes as a result.

The trick is to design rooms which borrow space from each other and from the outdoors. This mode of interior space handling is often called "open area design." Room dividers replace conventional floor-to-ceiling walls in the living wing of the house so that space flows freely throughout the area. And extensive but judicious use of window walls lets the home expand into the garden.

THE KITCHEN-dining room area frequently comes in for the "open" treatment. Often the two rooms are separated by a divider rather than by a conventional wall, and especially when they're pint-sized rooms, the divider is apt to be only shoulder-height to allow a maximum of space-borrowing between them.

The divider should be designed with storage units on one or both sides and with a pass through which facilitates serving and table-clearing. When family and guests are seated at the dining table, they'll find the shoulder-high divider tail enough to close off effectively the kitchen from sight.

In designing an area like this, care should be taken to establish continuity of decor throughout the two rooms. This, again, increases visually their size by eliminating the break caused by differing color schemes or wall treatments.

In the kitchen-dining room, the easiest and loveliest way to establish such continuity is to pick up the wood or finish used for the kitchen cabinetry, repeating it for the divider, dining room built-ins, and for wall paneling. A sleek finely grained wood like West Coast hemlock is good for this purpose, for it is never obtrusive, and its subtle champagne coloring is space-expanding. Cabinetry can be designed with magnetic latches, which open by finger pressure, rather than conventional hardware for unbroken, satin-smooth surfaces.

A TEXTURED ceiling of something like rough-sawn Douglas fir decking adds luxurious elegance.

TO AVOID CUTTING UP a room, divider walls can be used to separate rooms into living areas. Between kitchen and dining room a low divider such as this one is especially popular. With work counter and cupboards on the kitchen side and a pass-through to the dining room, it is both attractive and functional. This divider was designed in West Coast hemlock to match dining room wall and kitchen cabinetry.

WALL PANELING of warm, champagne-colored West Coast hemlock combines with handsome, open-beamed ceiling to give a welcoming atmosphere in this entryway, even though it is not an elaborate one.

Cloak closets are concealed in paneling. Wall adjoining door has been designed in panels of alternating clear and stained glass set in wood mullions for an interesting effect.

IT SETS THE TENOR

Entry Hall Real Asset To Home

Woebe-gone are many house holders who bought or built a home without an entrance hall.

Not only do they find it tedious to deal with muddy footprints on the living room carpet, awkward to greet guests when others are already seated, and wearing on the nerves and feet to cart coats and dripping umbrellas to the bedroom wing, but they also find something important missing from the home's design: Its prelude.

An entrance hall sets the tenor for the abode as a whole. It is here that arriving guests and members of the family receive an introduction to your home and here that they get their first taste of your home's hospitality.

A good entrance hall is composed of two things: Closet space and a welcoming atmosphere. Neither requires a great deal of square footage.

Closets, for example, need only be deep enough to accommodate an overcoat. Shelving built above the hanging rod takes care of hats, galoshes, and the like. A closet can be neatly disguised within a wall so that its presence is not immediately obvious. This is especially easy to do if walls are wood paneled, for closet doors can then be fashioned of the same wood and will melt right into the wall when closed.

For a small entryway, a soft hued, light-reflecting wood like champagne colored West Coast hemlock is a wise choice. In an entrance hall of large dimensions, a wood of deeper coloring and slightly heavier graining, like West red cedar, would do well. Either of these woods can be repeated as decking for a handsome, richly textured ceiling.

A panel of glass adjacent to the front door effectively welcomes visitors as they step up to ring the bell by giving them a peek into the house. An interesting idea is to alternate panels of stained glass with panels of clear glass. These can be set in sturdy mullions of a wood matching the entry's wall paneling.

The entryway can open directly into the living room, but if possible, it's better to have it connect with a hallway which leads both into the living area and into the bedroom wing.

BOOK REVIEWS

Donner Pass Drama Caught In 96 Pages

DONNER PASS by George R. Stewart, California Historical Society, 96 pages, $1.95. Reviews by Randall Gould.

This little book is a jewel, sparkling and complete in itself. By photo, sketch, map and straightforward text it conveys just what all of us who ever traversed Donner should wish to know of one of the most picturesque and historic areas in the U.S.

Donner has great drama in every season. Whether one climbs it by U.S. 40 or by rail, there must be awareness that here has been human toil and probably human suffering. No guess could be better than that second point; to the informed, Donner is unique in that here men and women sunk to the tragic depth of cannibalism.

Stewart tells the historic facts without any superfluous effort to embellish or wallow in them. Surely the terrible tale of the Donner party trapped by winter requires only requisite details.

He brings out Elisha Stevens' pioneering discovery of the pass and is quick to note such ironies as that when the railroad conquered the hard nut he had brought to light only 24 years before, Stevens himself was "unknown to fame."

All the illustrations are excellent and some are most informative of the old road and the rail construction. Geologic details are given, botany and zoology are not neglected, and there is proper attention to oddity of place names.

HAWAII: A GUIDE TO ALL THE ISLANDS by editorial staffs of Sunset Books and Sunset Magazine, Lane Book Co., 96 pages, $1.75.

This handsome addition to the "Sunset Discovery" series has an understanding of the Hawaiian Islands based on a California viewpoint. It is commended both to first visitors and to non-resident kamaaina, always nostalgic despite themselves.

Both photographs and maps are superb with but one thing lacking, a map of Honolulu, and perhaps even another of Hilo. The text is both sensitive and informative with plenty of solid attention to such points as shipping cars, a listing of festivals, and the rest of a rather obvious list.

What helps in this up-dating of familiar material is a mingling of crisp freshness with sophistication. The people who combined their talents on this job are professionals, but not jaded.

CO-DIRECTOR Peter Klein, right, a Tamalpais High School teacher, checks the script during a rehearsal for "Brigadoon," to be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday by Tam High students. The players are, from the left, Francie Oman, Merilee White and Joe Reade. The musical has a Scottish setting that will be complete down to the bagpiper.

'Brigadoon' - All-School Project For Tam Students, Teachers

By NEDDA ROVELLI

"Brigadoon," a village in the Scottish Highlands, will soon materialize from a mist of magic and beauty, awakening, according to the legend, after 100 years of slumber.

The stage of the Ruby R. Scott Auditorium at Tamalpais High School, Mill Valley, will become the village of Brigadoon next Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., and the performance of this musical by Lerner and Lowe promises to be the most beautiful ever in the history of Marin high school musicals.

Already, students and their parents, faculty members and people interested in the school, have brought their skills and ideas to the attention of the directors, Robert Greenwood and Peter Klain, because they are excited by the prospects of putting their creative talents to work on such a challenging show.

Greenwood, band and choral director, and Peter Klain, dramatic instructor, are the producers, coaches and "coaxers" of the production. But many other faculty members will have contributed "off-stage" to the performance.

MARY McDERMOTT, home economics teacher, will be working on costumes, renovating some of last year's and making new ones.

Paul Wata will be in charge of the entire workings of the budget, ticket sales and advertisers, while Henri Boussey will do all the outside poster publicity.

Set construction and painting will be headed by Donald Michalian and Robert Kent, who will have help and ideas from senior student Kirk Laurie, who last summer took the dramatics and dramatics workshop course at San Francisco State College.

Auditorium set-up and all requisitioning will be taken care of by Cyril Beattie who, like the others, volunteered his help.

In order to lighten the load on the two directors, several students will be helping in the music and art fields. Pat Hurtado, son of Mrs. Marjorie Whittlesay of Larkspur, will be assistant music conductor. Pat is planning to make music his career. The art work and set design will be done by junior Bruce Butte who has done previous set designing in former school programs.

Lighting and sound should be no problem, as Peter Van Ogle, a graduate of Tamalpais in 1959, will return to take the job along with Andrew McClain, physiology teacher. Both directors are quite happy to know that Pete will be there to do an almost impossible task of perfecting acoustics in the auditorium. Pete did the sound for last year's musical, "Paint Your Wagon." Doug Weld, also a graduate of Tam, will take time to set up the lights in the auditorium. This is one of the most important jobs, according to the directors, since the special effects in the show will depend almost entirely on the lighting.

THE SHOW itself, that is the actors, dancers, orchestra and choir, will be the pick of the best talent that Tam has to offer.

The chorus parts were found to be very difficult to perfect, so Greenwood decided to use only the enrolled choir.

Dancing will show off the members of the Silhouettes, Tam's modern dance club.

Along with the girls will be Marc Hanchett, Dave Arrow and Fred Rynders, who will perform the difficult sword dance. This particular dance was going to be quite a problem to learn until William Smythe, a professional Scottish dance teacher, offered to teach it to Christopher Forwood of Mill Valley, who in turn taught it to the boys. Forwood is the father of Miranda Forwood, who will play Fiona interchangeably with Francie Oman.

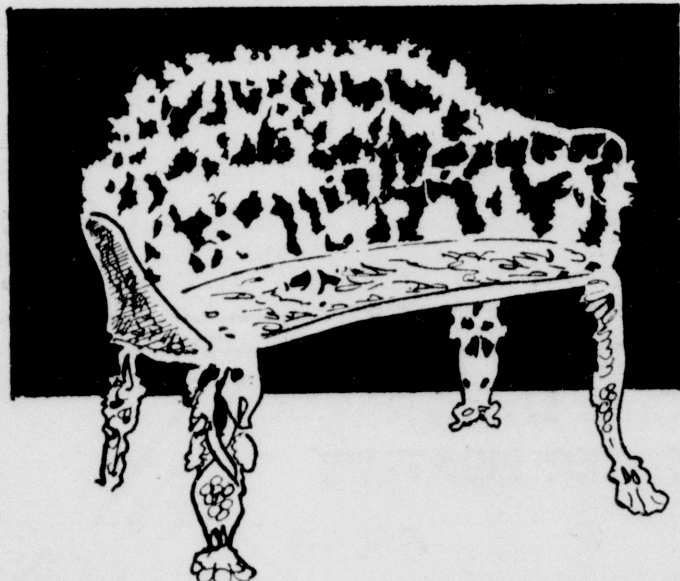

Orchestra rehearsals were started early this year because of the complicated task of putting this show together. The more advanced music students will play the difficult score.

A most novel innovation, sure to delight everyone, will be a bagpiper in the person of Roderick Aye. He is a member of the "Stuart Highlanders Pipe Band." He lives with his wife and family in Belvedere.

Seldom does one find almost every department of a school cooperating to such an extent, not to forget the sincere efforts of the hard working people who take a pride in helping their community's school.

SMOKE RINGS

Split a willow twig in two!
Drill through a plantation leaf or you
To catch a smoke ring when it is born
Might hollow a cob of Missouri corn.
Twist a leaf of a sad, sal tree!
A smoke ring is only a referee!
Do away with a sigh but not the fumes
Smoke rings are binges and miniature booms.
A straw in a hole in a side is a trick
Oh, bore two holes in a bamboo stick!
Blowing a smoke ring is blowing a horn
Hollow a cob of Missouri corn.

ETERNITY

Eternity is held in the stare of one face past itself;
in the trust of a small hand placed in a larger one;
in the path of the lily
from east to west — always east to west.
Eternity lies in the sun.

MILL VALLEY

DORIS THURSTON

OLD HOUSE is one of the paintings by Charles Simonds Jr., 20-year-old Marin artist, which will be on display in a one-man show opening tomorrow at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo. Young Simonds presently attends San Jose State College. The exhibit will continue through April 16.

VERSATILE PAINTER

Young Marin Artist's Work To Be Shown For Home Folk

The story of artist Charles Simonds Jr., 20, is truly a tale of "local boy makes good."

Not only does young Simonds hail from Marin County. But the ground work of his art education was received in San Rafael's grade schools where Mrs. John Lynch, among others, had a hand in his training.

His teachers recall that in those tender years Simonds won a "Be Kind to Animals" drawing contest. Later, while an art pupil of Wallace McDonald, instructor at Sir Francis Drake High School, he won a cash award with a safety poster, and was a "key" award winner in the 1957 Scholastic Magazine competition.

Young Simonds served as art editor of the school yearbook, "The Buccaneer."

After graduation from high school in 1957 he enrolled at San Jose State College, and is presently attending classes there in both commercial and fine art.

With his wife, Janet, also an art student, and son, Donald, he makes his home in San Jose.

He is a member of the San Francisco Artist's Cooperative has exhibited in various San Jose and Bay Area shows, and had a picture hung in the juried show held in connection with the celebrated 1959 jazz festival at Monterey.

Already young Simonds has acquired a considerable reputation as an artist with a versatility in style, subject matters and medium.

The home folk will have an opportunity to see some of his work starting tomorrow when some of his paintings will be previewed at the Torrance Gallery in San Anselmo. Both water colors and oils will be shown. And the exhibit will continue through April 16.

THIS IS A SELF-MADE sketch of artist Waltrina DuBois of San Francisco, formerly of Mill Valley. Her paintings will be on display at the Marin Academy of Music in San Anselmo, starting at 1 p.m. tomorrow. Also scheduled for tomorrow at the same place in conjunction with the art show is a poetry reading by leading Activitists poets, to start at 3 p.m.
